RISK FACTORS

The SEC requires the Company to identify risks that are specific to its business and its financial condition. The Company is still subject to all the same risks that all companies in its business, and all companies in the economy, are exposed to. These include risks relating to economic downturns, political and economic events and technological developments (such as hacking and the ability to prevent hacking). Additionally, early-stage companies are inherently more risky than more developed companies. You should consider general risks as well as specific risks when deciding whether to invest.

Risks Related to the Company's Business and Industry

We are an independent development company and are building our first large-scale product.

The Company was formed in September 2009 and is creating its first major product. Investment in the Company is highly speculative because it entails significant risk that we may never become commercially viable. We need to complete development of our product, and while the funds raised through this offering will be used to fund the development of our product (i.e., the game Shroud of the Avatar), we will require additional funding after this offering to complete the development and then launch our product. Once developed, we will need to transition from a company focused on development to a company that is also capable of successfully marketing, launching and operating the product. We may not be successful in such a transition. As an independent developer, we may encounter unforeseen expenses, difficulties, complications, delays and other known and unknown factors. We are subject to all of the risks that are commonplace among independent developers and should be considered as a startup business with significant risk that may face various difficulties typical for development stage companies. These may include, among others: relatively limited financial resources; developing new investment opportunities; delays in reaching projected goals and milestones; competition from larger, more established companies; and difficulty recruiting and retaining qualified employees and other personnel. The Company may encounter these and other difficulties in the future, some of which may be beyond its control. If the Company is unable to successfully address these difficulties as they arise, the Company's future growth and earnings will be negatively affected. The Company cannot give assurance to prospective investors that its business model and plans will be successful or that it will successfully address any problems that may arise. There is substantial doubt about the ability of development stage companies continue as a going concern.

Our future revenue is unpredictable and is based upon a single initial game that is currently under development.

We cannot guarantee that Shroud of the Avatar or any future products will be successfully developed or that our products will be profitable. Our business is speculative and dependent upon the acceptance of our products and the effectiveness of our marketing program to convince players to choose our products. We cannot assure that consumers will accept our products or that we will earn any revenues or profit. Investors may lose their entire investment. In addition, there is a substantial risk that we may not receive sufficient funding after this offering to complete the development of our game. It is also difficult to accurately forecast our revenues and operating results, and they may fluctuate in the future due to a number of factors. These factors include, but are not limited to, player acceptance of our games, competition from other market participants, and adverse changes in general economic, industry and regulatory conditions and requirements.

The loss of key personnel, or the inability to attract talent, could adversely impact our business.

Our success is largely dependent on the retention of certain key personnel, including, but not limited to, our Chief Executive Officer, Creative Director and member of the board of directors, Richard Garriott de Cayeux, and our Executive Producer, Starr Long. Our success is also dependent on the retention of certain of key team members focused on the design, development, engineering and/or production of the product. The loss of services of one or more of any of these key personnel members from our Company could adversely affect our business, projected sales, revenue and prospects. Our success is also dependent on our ability to hire and retain other key team members to assist in, among other things, the production, development and operations of the product. Competition for qualified personnel in the gaming industry is high, and we may have difficulty in hiring and/or retaining necessary personnel for a variety of reasons, including, without limitation, such competitive nature.

We face significant market competition from larger competitors.

While many new products are regularly introduced in our industry, it is increasingly difficult to produce high-quality products and to predict, prior to completing product development, what products will succeed. Competitors often develop products that could replicate or compete with products of competitors, which in turn hinders growth of a customer base and profitability. Products published by our competitors may take a larger share of players spending than anticipated, which could cause our product sales to fall below expectations. Players may lose interest in our product. If our competitors develop more successful products and/or offer competitive products at lower prices, our revenues, margins and profitability could be impaired. Our competitors include very large corporations with significantly greater financial, marketing and product development resources than we have. The availability of significant financial resources is a major competitive factor in the production of high-quality products and in the marketing of products that are ultimately well-received. Our larger competitors may be able to leverage their greater financial, technical, personnel, and other resources to finance larger budgets for development and marketing, and make higher offers to licensors and developers for commercially desirable properties as well as adopt more aggressive pricing policies to develop more commercially successful products. In addition, larger competitors may have greater leverage with distributors, retailers and other players.

If our game does not function as players expect, it may have a negative impact on our business and model.

If our initial product does not function as players expect, our projected sales may suffer and it may negatively impact our business. Re-developing the product to satisfy players could adversely impact the product and disappoint consumers. Additionally, if players do not find our product compelling, our projected revenue and sales will lower and negatively impact our business.

Our players may choose other games and/or other forms of entertainment, and if players do not find our game compelling then our projected revenue will decline.

Our player base will drive our revenue and success. The gaming industry is a highly speculative and competitive industry, and players may be critical of our product or business practices for a wide variety of reasons. If players choose other products and/or other forms of entertainment (whether by any action or inaction of our Company or our product), our projected revenue and business will decline. In addition, if our product does not function as players anticipate, if players find products that are more satisfying from their perspective, and/or if players do not find our product entertaining or compelling to their satisfaction, players may choose other products (or otherwise elect to just not use our product), which would have a negative impact on our business. Many of these factors are subjective and outside of the Company's control.

The game may have a short lifecycle and fail to generate significant revenues.

The video game industry is characterized by short product lifecycles and the frequent introduction of new games. Many products do not achieve sustained market acceptance or do not generate a sufficient level of sales to offset the costs associated with product development and distribution. A significant percentage of the sales of new products generally occurs within a relatively short period following the release of a game. Any competitive, financial, technological or other factor which delays or impairs the ability to introduce and sell games could adversely affect our operating results.

Investors may suffer potential loss or dissolution and termination.

In the event of a dissolution or termination of the Company, the proceeds realized from the liquidation of assets, if any, will be distributed in the priority established by applicable law, but only after the satisfaction of claims of creditors. Accordingly, the ability of an investor to recover all or any portion of its investment under such circumstances will depend on the amount of funds realized and claims to be satisfied therefrom.

Actual results may vary from any projection we present.

We may provide certain projected results of operations to prospective investors in connection with this offering. Projections are hypothetical and based upon present factors thought by management to influence our operations. Projections do not, and cannot, take into account such factors as market fluctuations, unforeseeable events such as natural disasters, the terms and conditions of any possible financing, and other possible occurrences that are beyond our ability to control or even to predict. While management believes that the projections reflect the possible outcome of our operation and performance, results depicted in the projections cannot be guaranteed.

If general economic conditions decline, demand for our product could decline.

Our product will involve discretionary spending on the part of consumers. Consumers are generally more willing to make discretionary purchases, including purchases of a product like ours, during periods in which favorable economic conditions prevail. As a result, our product will be sensitive to general economic conditions and economic cycles. A reduction or shift in domestic or international consumer spending could result in an increase in our selling and promotional expenses in an effort to offset that reduction, and could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations, profitability, cash flows and liquidity.

Our operating costs and unpredictable.

In addition to general economic conditions and market fluctuations, significant operating cost increases could adversely affect us due to numerous factors, many of which are beyond our control. Increases in operating costs for the Company or the product would likely negatively impact our operating income, and could result in substantially decreased earnings or a loss from operations.

If we issue additional shares of our stock, stockholders may experience dilution in their ownership of our Company.

We have the right to raise additional capital or incur borrowings from third parties to finance our business. In the future we may issue more shares of our common stock or preferred stock. Consequently, stockholders may experience more dilution in their ownership of us in the future.

Certain future distribution relationships have not been established.

The Company has established and will establish certain relationships with others, which may include publishing, marketing or distribution partners in certain geographic territories or for certain game platforms. We will need to maintain such relationships and, in some cases, establish new ones or replace existing ones. There will be several agreements and documents that remain to be negotiated, executed, and implemented with respect to certain aspects of our planned operations. In some cases, the parties with whom we would need to establish a relationship may not yet be identified. If we are unable to enter into these agreements or relationships on satisfactory terms, our operations could be delayed or curtailed, expenses could be increased, and profitability and the likelihood of returns to any or all of our stockholders could be adversely affected.

There is no public market for the securities and you will have to hold your securities indefinitely, subject only to a private sale to a qualified counterparty that is exempt from registration, or a registration of your securities, or a sale of the business.

Currently, there is no public or other trading market for the securities and there is no current intent to create a public market for the securities. Further, there can be no assurance that the Company will be able to facilitate a private sale of your securities or that any other market will develop. Thus, there can be no assurance that you will be able to liquidate your investment in case of an emergency or if you otherwise desire to do so. Investment in the Company is of a long-term nature. Accordingly, purchasers of securities will bear the economic risk of investment for an indefinite period of time.

Our buy-to-play business model may not be accepted by the market.

Our buy-to-play business model has not been adequately tested in the market, and if the model is not accepted by the market, our business and projected revenue and sales will be negatively impacted. We believe that the buy-to-play business model will be accepted, but cannot confidentially predict the market acceptance for a variety of reasons, including, without limitation, the rise and use of the free-to-play business model in the market. Our buy-to-play business model also depends on sales of subscriptions and digital items, and our results will be materially impacted if we cannot execute on this model.

Marketing costs are volatile and can impact our growth and profitability.

Marketing of our product and Company can be done through a variety of outlets, and part of the success of our product may depend on such marketing efforts. However, it is difficult to predict which marketing efforts will resonate with certain players. Due to the volatile nature of marketing costs and the potential need to explore a variety of marketing efforts, the Company may need to use additional funds for marketing that could impact growth and projected profitability.

We may experience significant revenue fluctuations due to a variety of factors.

We may experience significant fluctuations in sales of the product due to a variety of factors, including the timing of the release of the product, the popularity of the product, the timing of customer purchases, fluctuations in the size and rate of growth of consumer demand for the product, and the accuracy of forecasts of consumer demand. Our expectations of future game revenue are based on certain assumptions and projections, and our operating results will be disproportionately and adversely affected by a failure of the product to meet sales expectations. There can be no assurance that we can maintain consistent revenue, and any significant fluctuations in revenue may reduce the value of your investment.

If the product contains defects, the product's and the Company's reputation could be harmed and revenue would be adversely affected.

The product will be an extremely complex software program, and is difficult to develop. While we have quality controls in place to detect defects, these quality controls will be subject to human error, overriding, and reasonable resource constraints. Therefore, these quality controls and preventative measures may not be effective in detecting defects in the product before it is released into the marketplace. In such an event, that could significantly harm the business and operating results of the Company and ultimately reduce the value of your investment.

The video game industry is subject to increasing regulation of content, consumer privacy, and distribution.

Non-compliance with laws and regulations could materially adversely affect our business.

The video game industry is subject to increasing regulation of content, consumer privacy, distribution and online hosting and delivery in the various countries where the Company intends to distribute the product. Such regulation could harm our business by limiting the size of the potential market for the product and by requiring additional differentiation between products for different countries to address varying regulations. If our Company and our advisors do not successfully respond to these regulations, sales may decrease and our business may suffer. Generally, any failure of the Company to comply with laws and regulatory requirements applicable to our business may, among other things, limit our ability to generate revenue, and, in addition, could subject us to higher costs, damages, class action lawsuits, administrative enforcement actions, and civil and criminal liability.

If the product infringes on the intellectual property rights of others, costly litigation would negatively affect sales and our business may suffer.

Some of the images and other content in the product may inadvertently infringe upon the intellectual property rights of others. Although we will make efforts to ensure that the product does not violate the intellectual property rights of others, it is possible that third parties still may claim infringement. Infringement claims against the Company, whether valid or not, may be time consuming and expensive to defend. Such claims or litigations could require us to stop development, stop selling a game, redesign the product or require us to obtain a license such intellectual property, all of which would be costly and may increase costs and/or negatively affect revenues received by the Company and the value of your investment. We cannot be certain that a game will not infringe on issued trademarks, patents, and copyright rights of others. Our Company may be subject to legal proceedings and claims from time to time in our ordinary course of business arising out of intellectual property rights of others. These legal proceedings can be very costly, and thus can negatively affect the results of our operations.

If consumers move away from the platform or platforms our games are distributed on, our growth and revenue would be materially affected.

The Company's product will be delivered on the personal computer ("PC") platform, and there is a possibility that it may be delivered on console platforms in the future. If consumers begin to migrate to other platforms, such mobile and/or tablet devices, and the installed base of the platform(s) that the Company has delivered its product(s) loses momentum, the Company's revenue and growth opportunities will be directly and materially affected.

There can be no assurance that we will develop the game on our projected timeline or at all, or that the product will function as intended once developed.

There can be no assurance that we can develop Shroud of the Avatar to be a saleable or successful game. Investors must consider that we may not be able to create a game that we can effectively distribute or market. There can be no assurance that we will be able to develop the product on time or at all, or that the product will function as intended once developed. Additionally, if we become subject to bankruptcy or a similar proceeding or lose our ability to attract and retain qualified personnel, we may not be able to sustain operations, complete development of the product or may develop a product that fails to attract consumers, and consequently our business will be materially adversely affected, as will the value of your investment.

Risks Related to the Securities

There is not currently and may never be a public market for the Series B Preferred Stock.

You should be aware of the long-term nature of this investment. There is not now and likely will not be a public market for the Series B Preferred Stock. Because the shares of Series B Preferred Stock have not been registered under the Securities Act or under the securities laws of any state or non-United States jurisdiction, the Series B Preferred Stock have transfer restrictions and cannot be resold in the United States except pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF. It is not currently contemplated that registration under the Securities Act or other securities laws will be effected. Limitations on the transfer of the Series B Preferred Stock may also adversely affect the price that you might be able to obtain for the Series B Preferred Stock in a private sale. Purchasers should be aware of the long-term nature of their investment in the Company. Each Purchaser in this Offering will be required to represent that it is purchasing the Securities for its own account, for investment purposes and not with a view to resale or distribution thereof.

A majority of the Company is owned by a small number of owners.

Prior to the offering the Company's current officers and directors (and their affiliated investment funds) own approximately 71.75% of the Company's fully diluted shares. Subject to any fiduciary duties owed to our other owners or investors under Delaware law, these owners may be able to exercise significant influence over matters requiring owner approval, including the election of directors or managers and approval of significant Company transactions, and will have significant control over the Company's management and policies. Some of these persons may have interests that are different from yours. For example, these owners may support proposals and actions with which you may disagree. The concentration of ownership could delay or prevent a change in control of the Company or otherwise discourage a potential acquirer from attempting to obtain control of the Company, which in turn could reduce the price potential investors are willing to pay for the Company. In addition, these owners could use their voting influence to maintain the Company's existing management, delay or prevent changes in control of the Company, or support or reject other management and board proposals that are subject to owner approval.

Your ownership of the shares of preferred stock may be subject to dilution.

Non-major purchasers of preferred stock do not have preemptive rights. If the Company conducts subsequent offerings of preferred stock or securities convertible into preferred stock, issues shares pursuant to a compensation or distribution reinvestment plan or otherwise issues additional shares, investors who purchase shares in this offering who do not participate in those other stock issuances will experience dilution in their percentage ownership of the Company's outstanding shares. Furthermore, shareholders may experience a dilution in the value of their shares depending on the terms and pricing of any future share issuances (including the shares being sold in this offering) and the value of the Company's assets at the time of issuance.

You will be bound by an investment management agreement, which limits your voting rights.

All Non-Major Purchasers of Series B Preferred Stock will be bound by an Investment management agreement. This agreement will limit your voting rights and at a later time may require you to convert your future preferred shares into common shares without your consent. Non-Major Purchasers will be bound by this agreement, unless Non-Major Investors holding a majority of the principal amount outstanding of the Series B Preferred Stock vote to terminate the agreement.

The Securities will be equity interests in the Company and will not constitute indebtedness.

The Securities will rank junior to all existing and future indebtedness and other non-equity claims on the Company with respect to assets available to satisfy claims on the Company, including in a liquidation of the Company. Additionally, unlike indebtedness, for which principal and interest would customarily be payable on specified due dates, there will be no specified payments of dividends with respect to the Securities and dividends are payable only if, when and as authorized and declared by the Company and depend on, among other matters, the Company's historical and projected results of operations, liquidity, cash flows, capital levels, financial condition, debt service requirements and other cash needs, financing covenants, applicable state law, federal and state regulatory prohibitions and other restrictions and any other factors the Company's board of directors deems relevant at the time. In addition, the terms of the Securities will not limit the amount of debt or other obligations the Company may incur in the future. Accordingly, the Company may incur substantial amounts of additional debt and other obligations that will rank senior to the Securities.

There can be no assurance that we will ever provide liquidity to Purchasers through either a sale of the Company or a registration of the Securities.

There can be no assurance that any form of merger, combination, or sale of the Company will take place, or that any merger, combination, or sale would provide liquidity for Purchasers. Furthermore, we may be unable to register the Securities for resale by Purchasers for legal, commercial, regulatory, market-related or other reasons. In the event that we are unable to effect a registration, Purchasers could be unable to sell their Securities unless an exemption from registration is available.

The Company does not anticipate paying any cash dividends for the foreseeable future.

The Company currently intends to retain future earnings, if any, for the foreseeable future, to repay indebtedness and to support its business. The Company does not intend in the foreseeable future to pay any dividends to holders of its shares of preferred stock.

Any valuation at this stage is difficult to assess.

Unlike listed companies that are valued publicly through market-driven stock prices, the valuation of private companies, especially startups, is difficult to assess and you may risk overpaying for your investment. In addition, there may be additional classes of equity with rights that are superior to the class of equity being sold.

BUSINESS

Description of the Business

The company is in the final phase of development of Shroud of the Avatar, the 2nd largest crowd funded game in history, with over $11M raised from the players' community since the completion of the company's $7.5M Series A in Q2 2012.

Business Plan

Globally, there are 1.2 billion active gamers who are projected to generate nearly $100 billion in revenue in 2016. China is the largest market (followed by the U.S.) and accounts for one quarter of the entire global game market. Global game revenue is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate of 6.6% over the next few years, and reach $118.6 billion by 2019. In 2015, there were 155 million gamers in the United States, four out of every five U.S. households owned a device used to play video games, and there was an average of two gamers per household. That year, total game purchases (video, computer, and other formats) in the U.S. totaled $16.5 billion, a 7% increase from 2014. In the U.S., strategy-based games were the most popular computer game genre (36.4% of all units sold), while shooter-based games (24.5% of all units sold) were the most popular video game genre. Massively multiplayer online games (MMOs) encompass a wide range of genres including role-playing (e.g. World of Warcraft), shooter games, and a more recent and increasingly popular category called multiplayer online battle arenas (MOBAs), which includes games such as League of Legends. MMOs are projected to earn $19.8 billion in revenue in 2016, about 60% of all digital PC game revenue. The market is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate of 8%, and reach $26 billion by 2019. As more gamers, especially in Asia, shift to free-to-play games, virtual currency used to purchase virtual goods and avatars (i.e. microtransactions) is expected to account for more than 50% of revenue in the global MMO game market. Shroud of the Avatar business model relies on multiple revenue streams: Buy-to-Play: Retail premium product. Buy once, play forever ($45) Add-on Store: o In-game currency (“Gold”) can be purchased to buy virtual (in-game) items o Virtual (in-game) items can also be purchased directly in the add-on store; these include land, home, to special-edition and unique items (prices range from single digit dollars to thousands of dollars) As the game gains momentum in the US market, Portalarium will also consider distribution agreements in foreign territories which typically include upfront licensing fees/advances plus ongoing revenue share from in-game sales.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Please see the financial information listed on the cover page of this Form C and attached hereto in addition to the following information.

Operations

The Company recognizes revenue when: (1) persuasive evidence exists of an arrangement with the customer reflecting the terms and conditions under which products or services will be provided; (2) delivery has occurred or services have been provided; (3) the fee is fixed or determinable; and (4) collection is reasonably assured. Recognized revenues to date have been through book sales, while all product sales are recorded as deferred revenues, as discussed in Note 4 of Exhibit B to the Form C, as the revenue recognition criteria has not yet been completed.

We believe that our prior earnings and cash flows are not indicative of future earnings and cash flows. The software is currently in development and expected to launch in Q4 2017 at which point sales are expected to increase.

The Company has entered into revenue sharing arrangements with certain third parties in international countries in order to more target these markets more effectively and efficiently. These revenue sharing arrangements vary in terms and could impact future cost of sales and gross margins of the Company. In addition, the Company may explore additional services, service lines, and products in the future that may have an impact on costs of sales and gross margins.

The Company currently requires approximately $230,000 a month to sustain operations.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

The Company's ability to continue as a going concern in the next twelve months following the date the financial statements were available to be issued is dependent upon its ability to produce revenues and/or obtain financing sufficient to meet current and future obligations and deploy such to produce profitable operating results. Management has evaluated these conditions and plans to generate revenues and raise capital as needed to satisfy its capital needs. No assurance can be given that the Company will be successful in these efforts.

The Company does not have any additional sources of capital other than the proceeds from the Offering.

The company may look for additional financing to complete future episodes.

Capital Expenditures and Other Obligations

The Company has not made any material capital expenditures in the past two years.

The Company does not intend to make any material capital expenditures in the future.

The Company has a 3-year lease for its current office space that currently requires rent of $5,077.92 per month running from November 2015 through October 2018

Material Changes and Other Information Trends and Uncertainties

The Company does not currently believe it is subject to any trends or uncertainties.

After reviewing the above discussion of the steps the Company intends to take, potential Purchasers should consider whether achievement of each step within the estimated time frame is realistic in their judgment. Potential Purchasers should also assess the consequences to the Company of any delays in taking these steps and whether the Company will need additional financing to accomplish them.

The financial statements are an important part of this Form C and should be reviewed in their entirety. The financial statements of the Company are attached hereto as Exhibit A.

Valuation

Based on the Offering price of the Securities, the pre-offering value ascribed to the Company is $25,000,000.

As discussed in "Dilution" below, the valuation will determine the amount by which the investor's stake is diluted immediately upon investment. An early-stage company typically sells its shares (or grants options over its shares) to its founders and early employees at a very low cash cost, because they are, in effect, putting their "sweat equity" into the company. When the company seeks cash investments from outside investors, like you, the new investors typically pay a much larger sum for their shares than the founders or earlier investors, which means that the cash value of your stake is immediately diluted because each share of the same type is worth the same amount, and you paid more for your shares (or the notes convertible into shares) than earlier investors did for theirs.

There are several ways to value a company, and none of them is perfect and all of them involve a certain amount of guesswork. The same method can produce a different valuation if used by a different person.

Liquidation Value — The amount for which the assets of the company can be sold, minus the liabilities owed, e.g., the assets of a bakery include the cake mixers, ingredients, baking tins, etc. The liabilities of a bakery include the cost of rent or mortgage on the bakery. However, this value does not reflect the potential value of a business, e.g. the value of the secret recipe. The value for most startups lies in their potential, as many early stage companies do not have many assets (they probably need to raise funds through a securities offering in order to purchase some equipment).

Book Value — This is based on analysis of the company's financial statements, usually looking at the company's balance sheet as prepared by its accountants. However, the balance sheet only looks at costs (i.e. what was paid for the asset), and does not consider whether the asset has increased in value over time. In addition, some intangible assets, such as patents, trademarks or trade names, are very valuable but are not usually represented at their market value on the balance sheet.

Earnings Approach — This is based on what the investor will pay (the present value) for what the investor expects to obtain in the future (the future return), taking into account inflation, the lost opportunity to participate in other investments, the risk of not receiving the return. However, predictions of the future are uncertain and valuation of future returns is a best guess.

Different methods of valuation produce a different answer as to what your investment is worth. Typically liquidation value and book value will produce a lower valuation than the earnings approach. However, the earnings approach is also most likely to be risky as it is based on many assumptions about the future, while the liquidation value and book value are much more conservative.

Future investors (including people seeking to acquire the company) may value the company differently. They may use a different valuation method, or different assumptions about the company's business and its market. Different valuations may mean that the value assigned to your investment changes. It frequently happens that when a large institutional investor such as a venture capitalist makes an investment in a company, it values the company at a lower price than the initial investors did. If this happens, the value of the investment will go down.

Holders of Series B Preferred Stock are subject to a drag-along provision as set forth in the Purchase Agreement, pursuant to which, and subject to certain exemptions, each holder of shares of the Company agrees that, in the event the Company's Board, and a majority of both (i) the holders of the Company's Common Stock then outstanding, and (ii) the holders of a majority Common Stock that is issued and issuable upon conversion of the preferred shares vote in favor of a deemed liquidation event (e.g., merger or sale of the Company) and agree to transfer their respective shares, then all holders of shares will vote in favor of the deemed liquidation event and if requested perform any action reasonably required to transfer their shares.

Rights under the Purchase Agreement

All Non-Major Purchasers of Series B Preferred Stock will be bound by an Investment management agreement. This agreement will limit your voting rights and at a later time may require you to convert your future preferred shares into common shares without your consent. Non-Major Purchasers will be bound by this agreement, unless Non-Major Investors holding a majority of the principal amount outstanding of the Series B Preferred Stock vote to terminate the agreement.

Dilution

The investor's stake in a company could be diluted due to the Company issuing additional shares. In other words, when the Company issues more shares (or additional equity interests), the percentage of the Company that you own will go down, even though the value of the Company may go up. You will own a smaller piece of a larger company. This increase in number of shares outstanding could result from a stock offering (such as an initial public offering, another crowdfunding round, a venture capital round, angel investment), employees exercising stock options, or by conversion of certain instruments (e.g. convertible bonds, preferred shares or warrants) into stock.

If the Company decides to issue more shares, an investor could experience value dilution, with each share being worth less than before, and control dilution, with the total percentage an investor owns being less than before. There may also be earnings dilution, with a reduction in the amount earned per share (though this typically occurs only if the Company offers dividends, and most early stage companies are unlikely to offer dividends, preferring to invest any earnings into the Company).

The type of dilution that hurts early-stage investors most occurs when the Company sells more shares in a "down round," meaning at a lower valuation than in earlier offerings. An example of how this might occur is as follows (numbers are for illustrative purposes only):

- In June 2014 Jane invests $20,000 for shares that represent 2% of a company valued at $1 million.

- In December the company is doing very well and sells $5 million in shares to venture capitalists on a valuation (before the new investment) of $10 million. Jane now owns only 1.3% of the company but her stake is worth $200,000.
- In June 2015 the company has run into serious problems and in order to stay afloat it raises $1 million at a valuation of only $2 million (the “down round”). Jane now owns only 0.89% of the company and her stake is worth only $26,660.

This type of dilution might also happen upon conversion of convertible notes into shares. Typically, the terms of convertible notes issued by early-stage companies provide that in the event of another round of financing, the holders of the convertible notes get to convert their notes into equity at a “discount” to the price paid by the new investors, i.e., they get more shares than the new investors would for the same price. Additionally, convertible notes may have a “price cap” on the conversion price, which effectively acts as a share price ceiling. Either way, the holders of the convertible notes get more shares for their money than new investors. In the event that the financing is a “down round” the holders of the convertible notes will dilute existing equity holders, and even more than the new investors do, because they get more shares for their money.

If you are making an investment expecting to own a certain percentage of the Company or expecting each share to hold a certain amount of value, it’s important to realize how the value of those shares can decrease by actions taken by the Company. Dilution can make drastic changes to the value of each share, ownership percentage, voting control, and earnings per share.

SEEDINVEST INVESTMENT PROCESS

Making an investment in the Company

How does investing work?

When you complete your investment on SeedInvest, your money will be transferred to an escrow account where an independent escrow agent will watch over your investment until it is accepted by the Company. Once the Company accepts your investment, and certain regulatory procedures are completed, your money will be transferred from the escrow account to the Company in exchange for your convertible note. At that point, you will be an investor in the Company.

SeedInvest Regulation CF rules regarding the investment process:

Investors may cancel an investment commitment until 48 hours prior to the deadline identified in the issuer's offering materials;

The intermediary will notify investors when the target offering amount has been met;

The Company is making concurrent offerings under both Regulation CF and Regulation D and unless the Company raises at least the target amount under the Regulation CF offering and the closing amount under both offerings, it will not close this offering;

If an issuer reaches a target offering amount and the closing amount prior to the deadline identified in its offering materials, it may close the offering early if it provides notice about the new offering deadline at least five business days prior to such new offering deadline;

If there is a material change and an investor does not reconfirm his or her investment commitment, the investor's investment commitment will be cancelled and the committed funds will be returned;

If an issuer does not reach both the target offering amount and the closing offering amount prior to the deadline identified in its offering materials, no securities will be sold in the offering, investment commitments will be cancelled and committed funds will be returned; and

If an investor does not cancel an investment commitment before the 48-hour period prior to the offering deadline, the funds will be released to the issuer upon closing of the offering and the investor will receive securities in exchange for his or her investment.

What will I need to complete my investment?

To make an investment you will need the following information readily available:

1. Personal information such as your current address and phone number
2. Employment and employer information
3. Net worth and income information
4. Social Security Number or government-issued identification
5. ABA bank routing number and checking account number

What is the difference between preferred equity and a convertible note?

Preferred equity is usually issued to outside investors and carries rights and conditions that are different from that of common stock. For example, preferred equity may include rights that prevent or minimize the effects of dilution or grants special privileges in situations when the Company is sold.

A convertible note is a unique form of debt that converts into equity, usually in conjunction with a future financing round. The investor effectively loans money to the Company with the expectation that they will receive equity in the Company in the future at a discounted price per share when the Company raises its next round of financing. To learn more about startup investment types, check out "How to Choose a Startup Investment" in the SeedInvest Academy.

How much can I invest?

An investor is limited in the amount that he or she may invest in a Regulation Crowdfunding offering during any 12-month period:

If either the annual income or the net worth of the investor is less than $100,000, the investor is limited to the greater of $2,000 or 5% of the lesser of his or her annual income or net worth.

If the annual income and net worth of the investor are both greater than $100,000, the investor is limited to 10% of the lesser of his or her annual income or net worth, to a maximum of $100,000. Separately, the Company has set a minimum investment amount.

How can I (or the Company) cancel my investment?

For offerings made under Regulation Crowdfunding, you may cancel your investment at any time up to 48 hours before a closing occurs or an earlier date set by the Company. You will be sent a reminder notification approximately five days before the closing or set date giving you an opportunity to cancel your investment if you had not already done so. Once a closing occurs, and if you have not cancelled your investment, you will receive an email notifying you that your securities have been issued. If you have already funded your investment, let SeedInvest know by emailing cancellations@seedinvest.com. Please include your name, the Company's name, the amount, the investment number, and the date you made your investment.

After my investment

What is my ongoing relationship with the Company?

You are an investor in the Company, you do own securities after all! But more importantly, companies that have raised money via Regulation Crowdfunding must file information with the SEC and post it on their website on an annual basis. Receiving regular company updates is important to keep investors educated and informed about the progress of the Company and their investments. This annual report includes information similar to the Company's initial Form C filing and key information that a company will want to share with its investors to foster a dynamic and healthy relationship.

In certain circumstances a company may terminate its ongoing reporting requirements if:

1. The Company becomes a fully-reporting registrant with the SEC
2. The Company has filed at least one annual report, but has no more than 300 shareholders of record
3. The Company has filed at least three annual reports, and has no more than $10 million in assets
4. The Company or another party repurchases or purchases all the securities sold in reliance on Section 4(a)(6) of the Securities Act
5. The Company ceases to do business

However, regardless of whether a company has terminated its ongoing reporting requirements per SEC rules, SeedInvest works with all companies on its platform to ensure that investors are provided quarterly updates. These quarterly reports will include information such as: (i) quarterly net sales, (ii) quarterly change in cash and cash on hand, (iii) material updates on the business, (iv) fundraising updates (any plans for next round, current round status, etc.), and (v) any notable press and news.

How do I keep track of this investment?

You can return to SeedInvest at any time to view your portfolio of investment and obtain a summary statement. In addition to monthly account statements, you may also receive periodic updates from the Company about its business.

Can I get rid of my securities after buying them?

Securities purchased through a Regulation Crowdfunding offering are not freely transferable for one year after the date of purchase, except in the case where they are transferred:

1. To the Company that sold the securities
2. To an accredited investor
3. As part of an offering registered with the SEC (think IPO)
4. To a member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent, to a trust controlled by the purchaser, to a trust created for the benefit of a member of the family of the purchaser, or in connection with the death or divorce of the purchaser

Regardless, after the one year holding period has expired, you should not plan on being able to readily transfer and/or sell your security. Currently, there is no market or liquidity for these securities and the Company does not have any plans to list these securities on an exchange or other secondary market. At some point the Company may choose to do so, but until then you should plan to hold your investment for a significant period of time before a "liquidation event" occurs. A "liquidation event" is when the Company either lists its securities on an exchange, is acquired, or goes bankrupt.
