

The app that turns
“the one that got away” into “the one”

A photograph of a group of people sitting on a bench outdoors. They are all looking down at their mobile devices, specifically smartphones. The group consists of three women and one man. The man is in the center, wearing glasses and a dark jacket. The women are on either side of him, also looking at their phones. The background is slightly blurred, showing what appears to be a park or a public space.

Is love getting lost in this epidemic of anti-social dating?

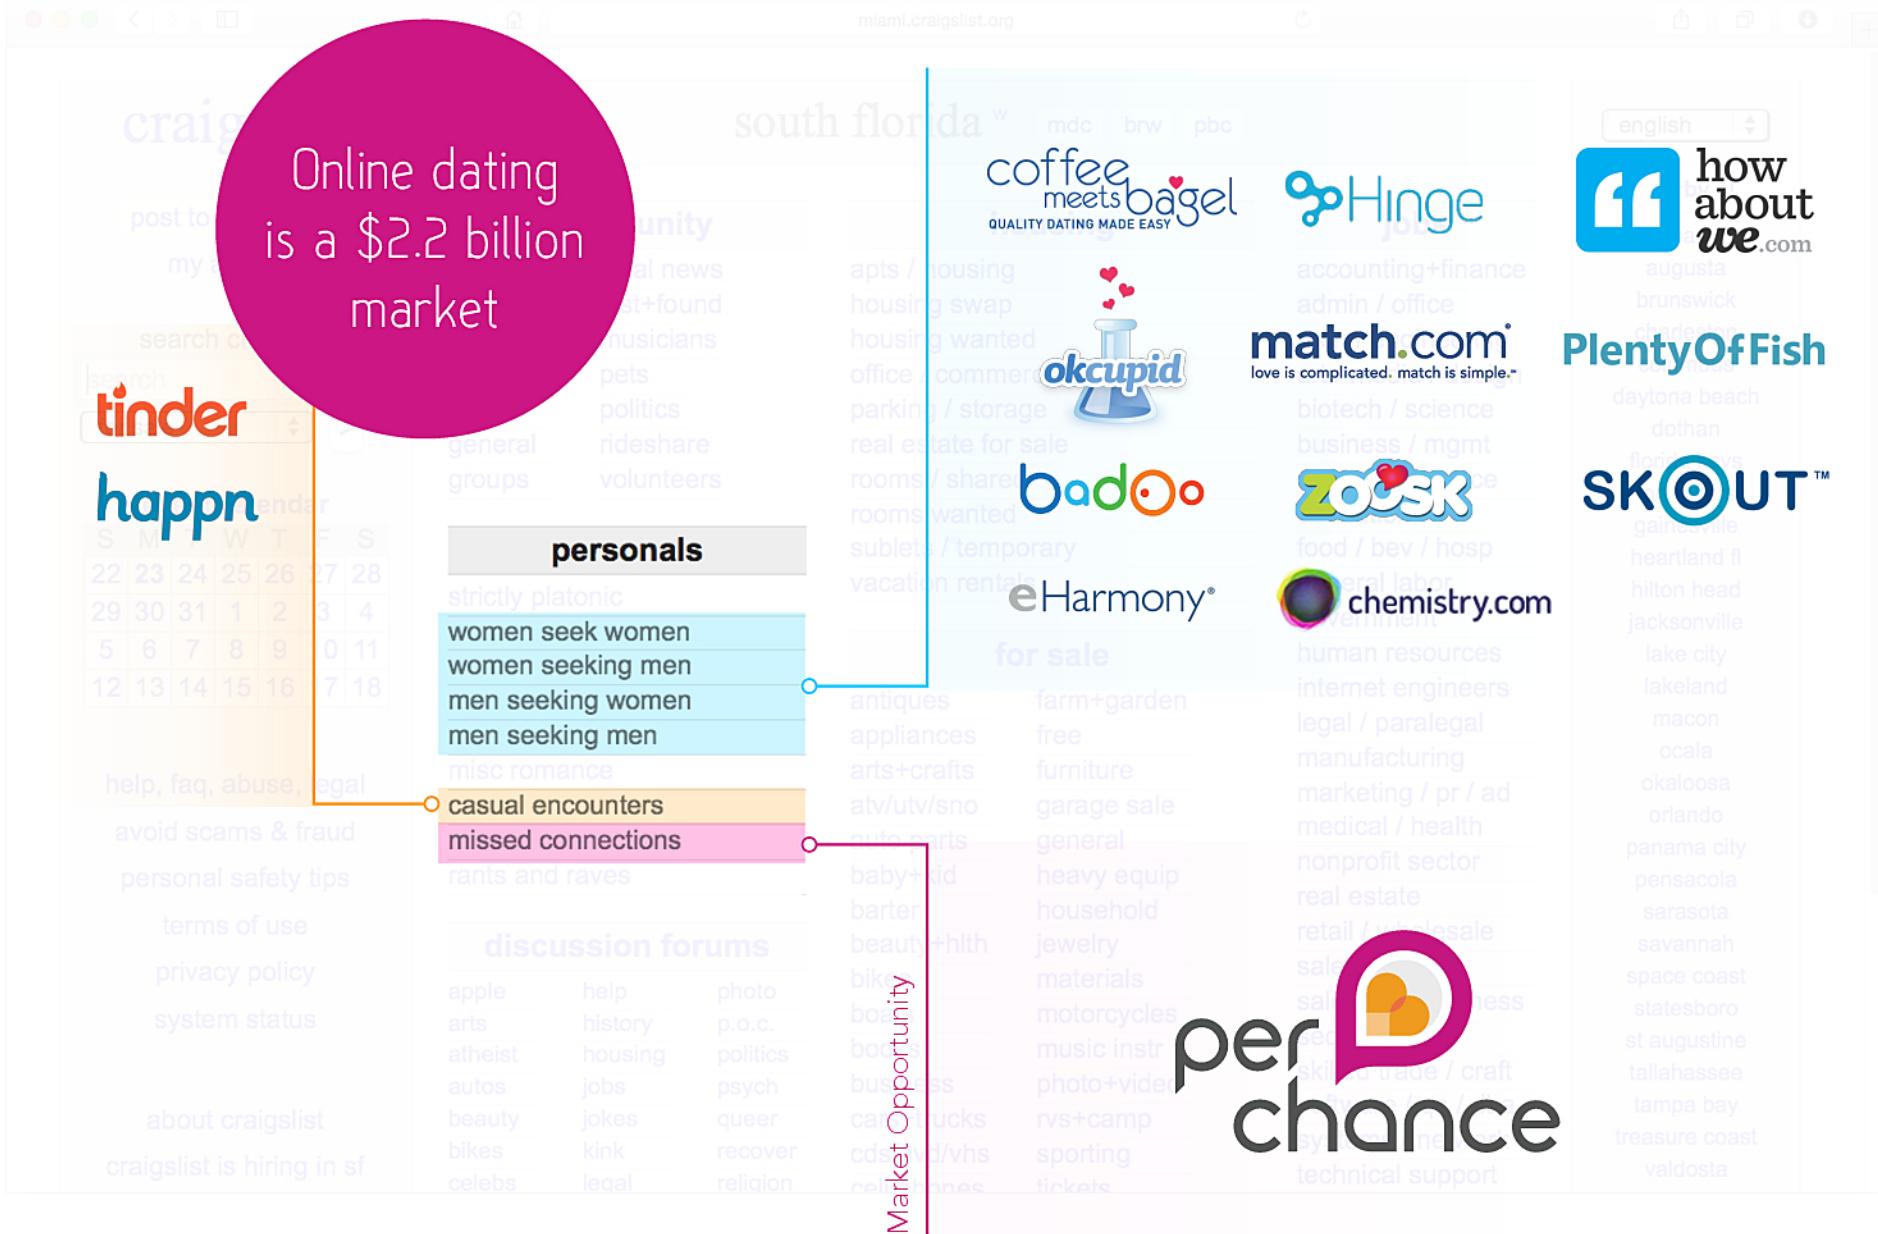

- 7% of communication is based on written or verbal word*
 - 93% is based on non-verbal body language*

“Dating apps ate up a lot of the time that I could be spending interacting with other people in person, or looking up from my phone on the train to say hello to someone.”

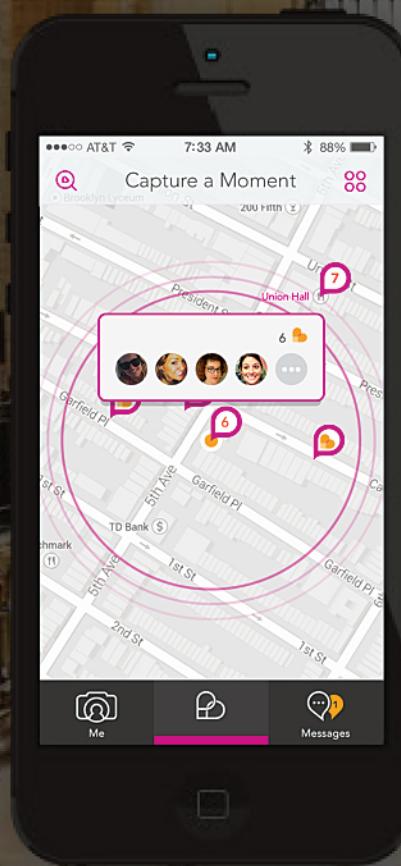

– Lyndsay Rush, SheKnows columnist

Our Marketing Plan

Brand ambassadors

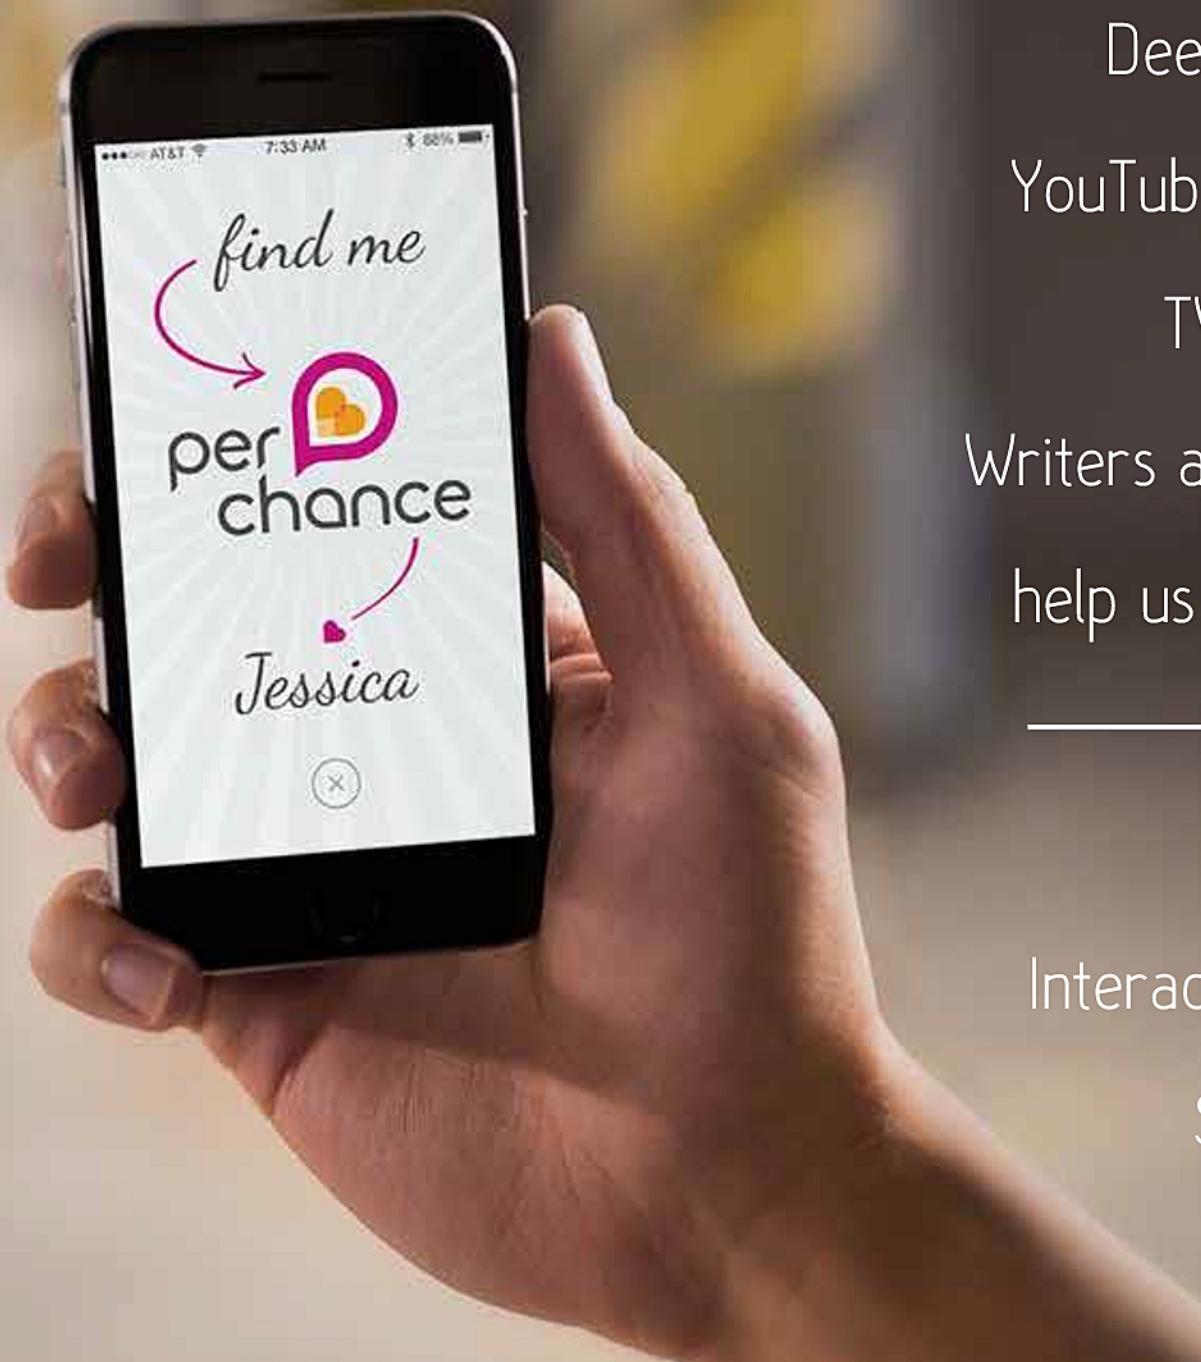

The image is a composite of two photographs. The left side shows a woman with long, wavy, light brown hair, smiling and holding several balloons. The balloons are pink and white, with the text "Find the one that got away" repeated on them. The right side shows a man from the waist up, wearing a white t-shirt with a graphic design. The design features a large pink circle containing the text "The end of 'What if?'" The background of the graphic shows a field of tall grass under a bright sky. The overall theme of the image is romantic and inspirational.
