The Global Technology Entrepreneurship Program supports young women, globally, between the ages of 10 - 23. It's an intensive 3-month, 50-hour curriculum, where teams of young women work together to imagine, design, and develop mobile apps. At the end of the program, they pitch their "startup" businesses to investors. Supporting tech leaders are fro... See more

Excited to say, out of all of the teams in California, my young high school group of girls took 3rd place. Not bad considering they pivoted their entire product after 2/3 of the way through and completed all requirements in the remaining 1/3 of the time left. Imagine what one more week could have done!

Sometimes when you experience that "Ah ha!" moment, you just have to go for it!

Aniruddha Kadam
Design[in]

November 20, 2017, Erin was senior to Aniruddha but didn't manage directly

Erin interviewed me for one of the core design teams she founded. She set the foundation for the Internal Apps Design team at LinkedIn, which I lead today. The team has matured over time and finds its backbone in the definition as set together by Erin.

She is an inspiration for designers around, growing and managing several teams. She takes this business of inspiring people and growing talent very seriously while creating a focused vision for teams she supports. Erin is a pleasure to work with, and I'd recommend Erin for any leadership position.

Oliver Tse
Build great people. Great products follow.

August 22, 2017, Oliver worked with Erin in different groups

As a Sr Manager for UI, I've had the pleasure of collaborating with Erin on a number of efforts for LinkedIn's infrastructure tools. Erin is a design visionary. Her design thinking is far ahead of others. She does not hesitate. And, she takes lead. Frankly, she takes so much lead that she leaves everyone behind. If you are lucky to have Erin on your team, I suggest letting her run free and allow her to focus on designing 'stuff' for Big Hairy Audacious Goals! Highly recommend Erin!
