Summary

As a strategic product leader with deep expertise in AI-driven medical technology, I'm passionate about building innovative solutions that improve patient outcomes and drive measurable business growth.

Over nearly two decades in the healthcare technology space, I've led cross-functional teams through every stage of the product lifecycle—from ideation and roadmap development to launch and market expansion. My experience spans scaling SaaS solutions, driving product-led growth strategies, and executing complex M&A integrations that have generated significant revenue and enterprise value.

I'm driven by a commitment to customer-centric innovation, operational excellence, and building high-performing teams that thrive in fast-paced environments.

Let's connect if you share a passion for advancing healthcare technology, product strategy, or scaling mission-driven solutions.
