The single best part of the work I'm privileged to do is meeting exceptional humans. And sometimes, they're the kind who actually change the world. Here with the indomitable Yvon Chouinard for his interview in my 2nd feature documentary, The Wild in 2018. This week Yvon gave his ...show more

Mark is truly awesome. Over the years, I've had the pleasure of working with him in various capacities, and he excels in every one. I've lost count of the number of times Mark has provided a brilliant solution when I was completely stuck. And his ability to connect with people and nurture relationships is unsurpassed. I look forward to working with Mark for years to come.

He even pinch-hits occasionally by stepping in front of the camera. I've had the pleasure of working with Mark on a variety of projects and every time I have been impressed by Mark's instinctive ability to alw...

He's also one of those people who manages to always remain focused on the big picture, regardless of the drama going on around him. As a result he easily switches between ...
