About

"Life is not always a matter of holding good cards, but sometimes, playing a poor hand well."

The effect you have on others is the most valuable thing a person can do. My journey towards self-discovery led me to incorporate healthy, alternative ways to ease the mind and body. In order to live with greater purpose to myself and those around me, I decided to start a company that could truly make a positive impact. I bring my passion for spirituality, raising consciousness and universal transformation to the epicenter of Stay Cool.
