Liam Bowers

Co-Founder & CEO, DroneTrace | Tactical UxS Exploitation
Charlottesville, Virginia, United States

Summary

I am an experienced National Security executive having served in leadership roles in both the military and private sector.

I am currently focused on building a new Defense Technology company alongside Joseph DePlato focused on the C-UAS space. DroneTrace is a defense technology company focused on enabling rapid, tactical exploitation of captured uncrewed aerial systems (UAS). While most counter-UAS efforts focus on detection and defeat, DroneTrace is building tools to extract actionable intelligence from adversary drones — directly at the point of capture. Our mission is to accelerate the intelligence cycle, support operational decision-making, and provide U.S. and allied forces with a decisive edge in drone-enabled conflict environments.
