About

I started Joulez, because I believe in the importance of electric vehicles as a partial solution to climate change and because the car rental industry uses outdated fleets and offers a bad customer experience.

This is my third startup. My first company implemented Apple technologies for businesses (I was one · ...see more

Infrastructure Architect, Engineer, & Generalist

April 28, 2011, Dave reported directly to Micah

Working on Micah's team refreshed my outlook on IT services firms--he runs his organization with internal and client-facing transparency, strong communication, and a high regard for accountability. I'd always be certain that Micah would balance the right levels of both trust and support, and the working environment at Digital Criterion fostered a great deal of growth in a short amount of time. ...see more
