The Zing team has been on fire since I met them at a conference here in Miami, FL. From that initial point of contact until now, I have watched them grow & I am excited to see what they accomplish in the near future. Apart from their ability to execute, it is their energy, vision, & grit that sold me.

The Zing team is excited to introduce our lead investor, Chris Bley. We are happy to have him on the Zing team and look forward to the impact he'll make as we continue to grow.

Chris has been involved in the renewable energy industry for over 20 years and he had been involved with drones and the aviation industry since 2012. He is a Santa Cruz based serial entrepreneur and founder of a drone innovation hub, AirSpace Integration.

In 2001, Chris founded Rope Partner, a rope access service company located in Santa Cruz which uses ropes to gain access on utility scale wind turbines throughout the world for inspection, maintenance and repair. Rope Partner was acquired by Magnesium Capital in 2020.

Chris cofounded InspecTools in 2012. InspecTools focuses on applying emerging drone, image database and software capabilities in the wind energy, solar and utility industries to have a better understanding of their assets. InspecTools was acquired by PrecisionHawk in 2018.

Currently, Chris is involved in several additional drone related projects including Monterey Bay DART (a non-profit focused on supporting and connecting drone innovators), Insight Up Solutions (drone and sensor resale) and AirSpace Integration (provides shared work spaces, air space management and training). These companies are all located in the Monterey Bay region.

Chris is passionate about making drone deliveries a reality and Zing is leading the way in an exciting renaissance in aviation and delivery.
