Education

Australian Pacific College

Leadership and Management

2018 – 2020

Leadership and Management course provides knowledge and skills to work in leadership and management roles across a range of enterprise and industry contexts. It assists me to develop initiative and judgement in planning, organising, implementing and monitoring my own workload and the workload of others. It also develops communication skills to support individuals and teams to meet organisational or enterprise requirements and strategies to plan, design, apply and evaluate solutions to unpredictable problems and to identify, analyse and synthesise information from a variety of sources.
