Lean Med is a medical device company dedicated to bringing essential treatment to remote, underserved regions through innovative technologies. LeanMed's first product, the O2 Cube, is a solar powered oxygen production system designed to serve the 40,000 rural health centers around the world that lack grid electricity. These rural health centers serve 1.2 billion people and lack medical oxygen which is a key reason that that pediatric pneumonia kills 800,000 children every year.
