Summary

With teams working remotely and cyber attacks skyrocketing, securing your business has become more of a priority than ever before. 60% of businesses have experienced a serious security breach in the last two years!

Atakama is an innovative data security company that provides a file-level encryption solution like nothing else available on the market.

Most companies leverage legacy encryption solutions that are credentials-based -- once a user authenticates, all data is immediately exposed.

Atakama does not rely on usernames and passwords, and eliminates the need for centralized key storage. There is nothing for an adversary to attack. Atakama encrypts at the individual file level, and seamlessly integrates with your network, cloud providers, and data discovery and classification tools.
