Summary

I love to invent. I think it's the coolest thing to take something that exists in my mind and to make it a reality in the physical world.

My most recent innovation is found in my wife and I's startup Peachy Inc. It is a women's pre-workout company that promotes self-acceptance, self-love, and self-confidence. We seek to create a place of belonging for all women in the exercise supplement industry.

Women need to know that they are already enough. No matter where you are in your fitness journey, you have to love yourself from the beginning and throughout in order for your true beauty to shine.

The things that sets our pre-workouts apart from the rest are: they taste really good, they are made for women, and they are packaged in dissolvable pods.
