Offering Statement

ZEKOND is a social media platform where individuals can connect with friends, family, communities, and businesses, locally and around the world, in an exciting and inspiring environment. ZEKOND was released in August 2023 in 125 countries, with over 25 different languages. With Crowdfunding, ZEKOND will be able to reach millions of individuals through advertising, grow its current user base to millions more users, and provide a business venue for entrepreneurs locally and internationally. When investors buy shares from ZEKOND at $2.75, investors are investing in the future of the social media uncapped industry. One of ZEKOND's goals is to be part of the stock market exchange ($12.50 per share starting price) within 2 to 3 years, where investors will be able to profit from ZEKOND.

Offering memorandum

ZEKOND L.L.C Inc, (“ZEKOND”, the “Company,” “we,” “us”, “Issuer” or “our”), is offering up to $120,280 via a simple agreement for future equity (the “SAFE” or the “Securities”), combined with an investor fee of 3% per investment transaction up to $300/transaction (“Investor Fee”), totaling up to $3,720. Purchasers of Securities are sometimes referred to herein as “Purchasers”. The minimum target offering is $20,000.28 (the “Target Amount”), which includes an investor fee of 3%. This Offering is being conducted on a best-efforts basis and the Company must reach its Target Amount by April 5, 2025 (the “Target Date”).

Unless the Company raises at least the Target Amount under the Regulation CF Offering by the Target Date, no Securities will be sold in this Offering, investment commitments will be canceled, and committed funds will be returned. Investors who completed the subscription process by April 5, 2025, will be permitted to increase their subscription amount at any time on or before the Target Date, upon Company consent. For the avoidance of doubt, no initial subscriptions from new investors will be accepted after April 5, 2025. If the Company reaches its Target Amount before the Target Date, the Company may conduct the first of multiple closings, provided that the Offering has been posted for 21 days and that investors who have committed funds will be provided notice five business days before the close.

The minimum amount of Securities that can be purchased is $302.60 per Purchaser (which may be waived by the Company, in its sole and absolute discretion). The offer made hereby is subject to modification, prior sale, and withdrawal at any time. Additionally, investors will be required to pay the Investor Fee to the Company to help offset transaction costs equal to three percent (3%) per investment (which may be capped or waived by the Company, in its sole and absolute discretion). The Investor Fee is counted towards the amount the Company is seeking to raise under Regulation Crowdfunding and the limit each investor may invest pursuant to Regulation Crowdfunding

Investment commitments may be accepted or rejected by the Company, at its sole and absolute discretion. The Company has the right to cancel or rescind its offer to sell the Securities at any time and for any reason. The purchasers of the Securities (“Investors” or “you”) must complete the purchase process through our intermediary, Dealmaker Securities LLC (the “Intermediary”). All committed funds will be held in escrow with Enterprise Bank & Trust, a Missouri chartered trust company with banking powers (the “Escrow Agent”) until the Target Offering Amount has been met or exceeded and one or more closings occur. You may cancel an investment commitment up to 48 hours prior to the Offering Deadline, or such earlier time as the Company designates, pursuant to Regulation CF, using the cancellation mechanism provided by the Intermediary. The Intermediary has the ability to reject any investment commitment and may cancel or rescind the Company's offer to sell the Securities at any time for any reason.

I'm from the Republic of Moldova. I am the lead developer at Zekond, where I have been building innovative products and supporting existing systems for over two years.

My journey with Zekond began two years ago when I was invited to join the team while working as a freelancer. I was captivated by modern technologies and the opportunity to create amazing things, so I eagerly joined the Zekond team. Over time, I became part of the founding family, as I was one of the three people who started working at Zekond almost from the company's inception. I have played a crucial role in making important decisions regarding the company's development direction and have consistently created outstanding applications. One of my most significant contributions to Zekond is a cross-platform mobile application, built from scratch, where users can connect and view short videos (zClips). I have also developed numerous other technical modules and continue supporting existing ones. This experience has been invaluable, establishing me as a highly regarded developer and department manager, responsible for making strategic decisions. Currently, I am studying Informatics at the State University of Moldova.

Zekond has provided me with an excellent opportunity to realize my potential as a developer and department lead, creating remarkable products for people worldwide. I am committed to continuously improving the Zekond ecosystem and building even better applications and services, showcasing the full potential of Zekond's offerings.

RISK FACTORS

The SEC requires the Company to identify risks that are specific to its business and its financial condition. The Company is still subject to all the same risks that all companies in its business, and all companies in the economy, are exposed to. These include risks relating to economic downturns, political and economic events, and technological developments (such as hacking and the ability to prevent hacking).

Additionally, early-stage companies are inherently more risky than more developed companies. You should consider general risks as well as specific risks when deciding whether to invest.

Uncertain Risk.

An investment in the Company involves a high degree of risk and should only be considered by those who can afford the loss of their entire investment. Furthermore, the purchase of any of the securities should only be undertaken by persons whose financial resources are sufficient to enable them to indefinitely retain an illiquid investment. Each investor in the Company should consider all of the information provided to such potential investor regarding the Company as well as the following risk factors, in addition to the other information listed in the Company's Form C. The following risk factors are not intended, and shall not be deemed to be, a complete description of the commercial and other risks inherent in the investment in the Company.

Any valuation at this stage is difficult to assess.

The valuation for the offering was established by the Company. Unlike listed companies that are valued publicly through market-driven stock prices, the valuation of private companies, especially startups, is difficult to assess, and you may risk overpaying for your investment.

Management Discretion as to Use of Proceeds.

Our success will be substantially dependent upon the discretion and judgment of our management team concerning the application and allocation of the proceeds of this Offering. The use of proceeds described below is an estimate based on our current business plan. We, however, may find it necessary or advisable to reallocate portions of the net proceeds reserved for one category to another, and we will have broad discretion in doing so.

Our business projections are only projections.

There can be no assurance that the Company will meet our projections. There can be no assurance that the Company will be able to find sufficient demand for our product, that people think it's a better option than a competing product, or that we will be able to provide our products at a level that allows the Company to make a profit and still attract business.

The amount raised in this offering may include investments from Company insiders or immediate family members.

Officers, directors, executives, and existing owners with a controlling stake in the Company (or their immediate family members) may make investments in this offering. Any such investments will be included in the raised amount reflected on the campaign page.

You are trusting that management will make the best decision for the Company.

You are buying securities as a minority holder and therefore must trust the management of the Company to make good business decisions that grow your investment.

This offering involves "rolling closings," which may mean that earlier investors may not have the benefit of information that later investors have.

As we have already reached our target amount, we may request that the intermediary instruct the escrow agent to disburse offering funds to us. At that point, investors whose subscription agreements have been accepted will become our investors. All early-stage companies are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties, and it is not uncommon for material changes to be made to the offering terms or to companies' businesses, plans, or prospects, sometimes on short notice. When such changes happen during an offering, we must file an amendment to our Form C with the SEC, and investors whose subscriptions have not yet been accepted will have the right to withdraw their subscriptions and get their money back. Investors whose subscriptions have already been accepted, however, will already be our investors and will have no such right.

We rely on third parties to provide services essential to the success of our business.

We rely on third parties to provide a variety of essential business functions for us, including, Internet, App displays, legal work, public relations, advertising, retailing, and distribution. It is possible that some of these third parties may fail to perform their services or will perform them in an unacceptable manner. We may experience delays, defects, errors, or other problems with their work that will materially impact our operations, and we may have little or no recourse to recover damages for these losses. A disruption in these keys.

SAFEs do not represent current equity stakes in the Company so do not have voting rights.

Investors in this offering will not be able to vote with their SAFE note as they do not represent ownership in the Company.

SAFEs are not common or preferred stock, and you are not getting an equity stake in return for your investment.

SAFEs do not represent a current equity stake in the company in which you are investing. Instead, the terms of the SAFE have to be met for you to receive your equity stake.

SAFEs may only convert to equity if - and only if - a triggering event occurs.

The Company may never conduct future equity financing or elect to convert the Securities if such future equity financing does occur. In addition, the Company may never undergo a liquidity event such as a sale of the Company or an initial public offering. If neither the conversion of the Securities nor a liquidity event occurs, Investors could be left holding the Securities in perpetuity.

No guarantee of return on investment.

There is no assurance that a purchaser will realize a return on its investment or that it will not lose its entire investment. For this reason, each purchaser should read Form C and all Exhibits carefully and should consult with its own attorney and business advisor before making any investment decision.

Using a credit card to purchase securities may impact the return on your investment as well as subject you to other risks inherent in this form of payment.

Investors in this offering have the option of paying for their investment with a credit card, which is not usual in the traditional investment markets. Transaction fees charged by your credit card company (which can reach 5% of transaction value if considered a cash advance) and interest charged on unpaid card balances (which can reach almost 25% in some states) add to the effective purchase price of the shares you buy. See "Plan of Distribution and Selling Security Holders." The cost of using a credit card may also increase if you do not make the minimum monthly card payments and incur late fees. Using a credit card is a relatively new form of payment for securities and will subject you to other risks inherent in this form of payment, including that, if you fail to make credit card payments (e.g. minimum monthly payments), you risk damaging your credit score and payment by credit card may be more susceptible to abuse than other forms of payment. Moreover, where a third-party payment processor is used, as in this offering, your recovery options in the case of disputes may be limited. The increased costs due to transaction fees and interest may reduce the return on your investment.

The Commission's Office of Investor Education and Advocacy issued an Investor Alert dated February 14, 2018 entitled: "Credit Cards and Investments - A Risky Combination," which explains these and other risks you may want to consider before using a credit card to pay for your investment.

You will need to keep records of your investment for tax purposes.

If the SAFE converts to an equity stake and you eventually sell the stock at a profit or loss, you will probably need to pay tax on the long- or short-term capital gains that you realize or apply the loss to other taxable income. If you do not have a regular brokerage account or your regular broker will not hold our Preferred Stock for you (and many brokers refuse to hold securities issued under Regulation A) there will be nobody keeping records for you for tax purposes. You will have to keep your own records and calculate the gain or loss on any sales of the Preferred Stock.

Regulation Crowdfunding securities are restricted to a 12-month lock-up period.

Regulation Crowdfunding securities are restricted to a 12-month lock-up period, and therefore securities in this offering cannot be traded on a public exchange during this time. This will still apply to the Regulation of Crowdfunding securities that are converted into publicly traded shares should such an event take place.

Damage to our reputation could negatively impact our business, financial condition, and results of operations

Our reputation and the quality of our brand are critical to our business and success in existing markets and will be critical to our success as we enter new markets. Any incident that erodes consumer loyalty to our brand could significantly reduce its value and damage our business. We may be adversely affected by any negative publicity, regardless of its accuracy. Also, there has been a marked increase in the use of social media platforms and similar devices, including blogs, social media websites, and other forms of internet-based communications that provide individuals with access to a broad audience of consumers and other interested persons. The availability of information on social media platforms is virtually immediate as is its impact. The information posted may be adverse to our interests or may be inaccurate, each of which may harm our performance, prospects, or business. The harm may be immediate and may disseminate rapidly and broadly, without affording us an opportunity for redress or correction.

The Company has authorized the following securities:

- Common Stock: 449,090.00 of which shall be non-voting common stock

Dilution

Investors should understand the potential for dilution. The investor's stake in a Company could be diluted due to the Company issuing additional shares. In other words, when the Company issues more shares, the percentage of the Company that you own will go down, even though the value of the Company may go up. You will own a smaller piece of a larger Company. This increase in the number of shares outstanding could result from a stock offering (such as an initial public offering, another crowdfunding round, a venture capital round, or angel investment), employees exercising stock options or by conversion of certain instruments (e.g. convertible bonds, preferred shares, or warrants) into stock. If the Company decides to issue more shares, an investor could experience value dilution, with each share being worth less than before, and control dilution, with the total percentage an investor owns being less than before. There may also be earnings dilution, with a reduction in the amount earned per share (though this typically occurs only if the Company offers dividends, and most early-stage companies are unlikely to offer dividends, preferring to invest any earnings into the Company).

If a company decides to issue more shares, an investor could experience value dilution, with each share being worth less than before, and control dilution, with the total percentage an investor owns being less than before. There may also be earnings dilution, with a reduction in the amount earned per share (though this typically occurs only if the company offers dividends, and most early-stage companies are unlikely to offer dividends, preferring to invest any earnings into the company).

The type of dilution that hurts early-stage investors mostly occurs when a company sells more shares in a "down round," meaning at a lower valuation than in earlier offerings. An example of how this might occur is as follows (numbers are for illustrative purposes only):

- In June 2022 Jane invests $20,000 for shares that represent 2% of a company valued at $1 million.
- In December, the company was doing very well and sold $5 million in shares to venture capitalists on a valuation (before the new investment) of $10 million. Jane now owns only 1.3% of the company but her stake is worth $200,000.
- In June 2023 the company ran into serious problems and to stay afloat it raised $1 million at a valuation of only $2 million (the "down round"). Jane now owns only 0.89% of the company and her stake is worth only $26,660.

This type of dilution might also happen upon conversion of convertible notes into shares. Typically, the terms of convertible notes issued by early-stage companies provide that in the event of another round of financing, the holders of the convertible notes get to convert their notes into equity at a "discount" to the price paid by the new investors, i.e., they get more shares than the new investors would for the same price. Additionally, convertible notes may have a "price cap" on the conversion price, which effectively acts as a share price ceiling. Either way, the holders of the convertible notes get more shares for their money than new investors. If the financing is a "down round" the holders of the convertible notes will dilute existing equity holders, and even more than the new investors do, because they get more shares for their money.

If you are making an investment expecting to own a certain percentage of the Company or expecting each share to hold a certain amount of value, it's important to realize how the value of those shares can decrease by actions taken by the Company. Dilution can make drastic changes to the value of each share, ownership percentage, voting control, and earnings per share.

Valuation

As discussed in "Dilution" above, the valuation of the Company will determine the amount by which the investor's stake is diluted in the future. An early-stage company typically sells its shares (or grants options over its shares) to its founders and early employees at a very low cash cost, because they are, in effect, putting their "sweat equity" into the company. When the company seeks cash investments from outside investors, like you, the new investors typically pay a much larger sum for their shares than the founders or earlier investors, which means that the cash value of your stake is immediately diluted because each share of the same type is worth the same amount, and you paid more for your shares than earlier investors did for theirs.

There are several ways to value a company, and none of them is perfect and all of them involve a certain amount of guesswork. The same method can produce a different valuation if used by a different person.

Liquidation Value — The amount for which the assets of the company can be sold, minus the liabilities owed, e.g., the assets of a bakery include the cake mixers, ingredients, baking tins, etc. The liabilities of a bakery include the cost of rent or mortgage on the bakery. However, this value does not reflect the potential value of a business, e.g., the value of the secret recipe. The value for most startups lies in their potential, as many early-stage companies do not have many assets (they probably need to raise funds through a security offering in order to purchase some equipment).

Book Value — This is based on an analysis of the company's financial statements, usually looking at the company's balance sheet as prepared by its accountants. However, the balance sheet only looks at costs (i.e., what was paid for the asset), and does not consider whether the asset has increased in value over time. In addition, some intangible assets, such as patents, trademarks or trade names, are very valuable but are not usually represented at their market value on the balance sheet.

Earnings Approach — This is based on what the investor will pay (the present value) for what the investor expects to obtain in the future (the future return), taking into account inflation, the lost opportunity to participate in other investments, and the risk of not receiving the return. However, predictions of the future are uncertain and the valuation of future returns is a best guess.

Different methods of valuation produce different answers as to what your investment is worth. Typically, liquidation value and book value will produce a lower valuation than the earnings approach. However, the earnings approach is also most likely to be risky as it is based on many assumptions about the future, while the liquidation value and book value are much more conservative.

Future investors (including people seeking to acquire the company) may value the company differently. They may use a different valuation method or different assumptions about the company's business and its market. Different valuations may mean that the value assigned to your investment changes. It frequently happens that when a large institutional investor such as a venture capitalist makes an investment in a company, it values the company at a lower price than the initial investors did. If this happens, the value of the investment will go down.

Transferability of securities

Pursuant to Regulation Crowdfunding, for a year, the securities can only be resold:

- In an IPO;
- To the Company.

In addition, transfers are subject to contractual restrictions under the Operating Agreement of the Co-Issuer, and under the Company's Investor Rights Agreement, Right of First Refusal Agreement, and Voting Agreement in the event investors in the offering become direct holders of the Company's securities.

Financial Condition and Results of Operations

You should read the following discussion and analysis of our financial condition and results of our operations together with our audited financial statements and related notes appearing at the end of this Offering Memorandum. This discussion contains forward-looking statements reflecting our current expectations that involve risks and uncertainties. Actual results and the timing of events may differ materially from those contained in these forward-looking statements due to several factors, including those discussed in the section entitled "Risk Factors" and elsewhere in this Offering Memorandum. There have not been any prior exempt offers in the last 3 years.

For the fiscal year ended December 31, 2023, the Company had revenues of $50,097 compared to the year ended December 31, 2022, when the Company had no revenues. The largest increase in these revenues was related to increased service fee revenue from its advertising services.

In 2023, the Company recognized $37,687 in operating expenses, as compared to no operating expenses for 2022. Strategic marketing investments have not only driven increased sales but also lowered customer acquisition costs over the operational periods, demonstrating the effectiveness of targeted campaigns.

The Company plans to continue to focus on operational efficiency, customer satisfaction, and strategic investments to drive further growth. The Company will continue efforts in effective cost management, which have successfully reduced operational expenses during the operating period, allowing the company to reinvest in critical areas of the business. This treatment has led to improvements in profitability, reflecting efficient cost management and value-driven strategies, which management expects to continue.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

How do the funds of this campaign factor into your financial resources? (Are these funds critical to your Company operations? Or do you have other funds or capital resources available?)

We believe the funds of this campaign are critical to our Company operations. These funds are required to support our working capital requirements related to new product development and the expansion into additional and large app users. The funds from this crowdfunding will be used to expand our operation and invest in marketing to grow the company and make it profitable meaning ZEKOND will be able to profit from continuing expansion and have the funds to develop and grow our users. Also, part of the plan is to use SBA Loans to bring more capital to the business and our own internal marketing team will start selling advertising on the platform when we have 5-10k users per region. At the same time with growth, we will be able to open our door for big companies like Google, Yahoo, Apple ect to advertise directly with us. As of May 31, 2024, the Company had $3,980.48 in cash and cash equivalents, which would allow the company to operate for approximately three months given its historical cash receipts and disbursements.

How long will you be able to operate the Company if you raise your minimum? What expenses is this estimate based on?

The minimum offering amount, being only $20,000.28, will be used for fees associated with the offering so it will not affect the operations of the Company.

How long will you be able to operate the Company if you raise your maximum funding goal?

If the Company raises the maximum offering amount, we anticipate the Company will be able to operate for 18-24 months. And is projected to be self-sustainable after month 12 and with a $1,000,000 Investment will create a budget for 18-24 months with organic and marketing growth to reach 9-12 million app users. We are creating an estimated value of 1 billion dollars.
