RISK FACTORS

A crowdfunding investment involves risk. You should not invest any funds in this offering unless you can afford to lose your entire investment.

In making an investment decision, investors must rely on their own examination of the issuer and the terms of the offering, including the merits and risks involved. These securities have not been recommended or approved by any federal or state securities commission or regulatory authority. Furthermore, these authorities have not passed upon the accuracy or adequacy of this document.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission does not pass upon the merits of any securities offered or the terms of the offering, nor does it pass upon the accuracy or completeness of any offering document or literature.

These securities are offered under an exemption from registration; however, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has not made an independent determination that these securities are exempt from registration.

8. Discuss the material factors that make an investment in the issuer speculative or risky:

1. Bitcoin market volatility: The app's success is tied to the Bitcoin ecosystem, which can be highly volatile. Fluctuations in Bitcoin's value could affect user engagement and the overall health of the Bitcoin community.

2. Regulatory uncertainty: Changes in cryptocurrency regulations could impact the app's operations. New laws or restrictions on Bitcoin-related activities could limit the app's functionality or user base.

3. Competition: The social networking and event management space is highly competitive. Existing platforms or new entrants could develop similar features, potentially impacting user acquisition and retention.

4. Technological risks: As a technology-based company, Orange Pill App faces risks related to software development, cybersecurity, and platform stability. Any significant technical issues or data breaches could harm the company's reputation and user trust.

5. User adoption and retention: The success of the app depends on continued user growth and engagement. Failure to attract and retain users could negatively impact revenue and growth prospects.

6. Dependence on key personnel: The company relies heavily on its founders and core team. The loss of key team members could disrupt operations and slow development.
7. Financial sustainability: The company is currently operating at a loss and may require additional funding beyond this offering to achieve profitability and fund growth initiatives.
8. Limited operating history: As a relatively new company, Orange Pill App has a limited track record, making it difficult to evaluate its long-term prospects.
9. Reliance on third-party platforms: The app's distribution depends on app stores, which could change their policies or fees, potentially affecting the company's operations or profitability.
10. Scalability challenges: Rapid growth could strain the company's technical infrastructure, customer support, and operational capabilities.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO FOREIGN INVESTORS

If the investor lives outside the United States, it is the investor's responsibility to fully observe the laws of any relevant territory or jurisdiction outside the United States in connection with any purchase of the securities, including obtaining required governmental or other consents or observing any other required legal or other formalities. The company reserves the right to deny the purchase of the securities by any foreign investor.

OTHER MATERIAL INFORMATION

31. In addition to the information expressly required to be included in this Form, include:

- (1) any other material information presented to investors; and
- (2) such further material information, if any, as may be necessary to make the required statements, in the light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading.

Market Opportunity: There are currently 500k-1M bitcoin "maxi" – our core demographic. Given Bitcoin's increasing mainstream adoption, we expect this number to reach 10M by 2030. The company's goal is to capture 5% of this market, translating to 15M members and $50M in revenue by 2030

Financial Projections:

2025: $1M

2026: $2.1M

Key Risks:

1. Dependency on Bitcoin's Community: While Bitcoin's market volatility is covered, there's also the community risk: the app is designed for a niche audience (Bitcoin enthusiasts), and any shifts in the Bitcoin community's dynamics, preferences, or overall sentiment toward using specific social networks could affect the app's long-term sustainability. This risk grows if the app fails to appeal to a broader user base beyond early Bitcoin adopters.

2. Privacy Concerns and User Safety: While you've mentioned technological risks and cybersecurity, there is also a specific privacy risk due to the geolocation features of Orange Pill App. Users may have concerns about sharing their location or identity within a cryptocurrency-related app, especially in areas where Bitcoin is viewed with skepticism. Safety concerns about meeting people in real life through the app might also be a material risk to adoption and retention.

3. Merchant and Event Organizer Adoption: The success of the app's business model relies on merchants and event organizers joining the platform and paying fees. If there is slow adoption by merchants or difficulties convincing them of the app's value, it could hinder the growth of the app's revenue streams and overall value proposition. This is particularly important if a significant portion of future revenue is expected from merchant interactions.

ONGOING REPORTING

The issuer will file a report electronically with the Securities & Exchange Commission annually and post the report on its website, no later than:

(120 days after the end of each fiscal year covered by the report).

The issuer must continue to comply with the ongoing reporting requirements until:
