— OUR PLAN

Use of Funds

At Skye Hydration, we aim to allocate our budget to maximize our impact and growth strategically.

While the water itself is fully developed, we are using 12% of the funds for a large ionic electrolysis generator to install at our co-packer facility to make SkyeH and bulk-reduced concentrate alkaline water for our co-packer to make other alkaline water brands.

47% is dedicated to the ancillary equipment, bottles, and packaging materials required for the launch. We allot 31% for operational and marketing costs.

The remaining 10% will cover broker and processing fees associated with the transaction costs and broker services.

47% - Launch Costs – equipment and cost of goods to launch SkyeH.

31% - Operational and Marketing – Support team, digital ads, product trials and events.

12% - Electrolyzed Ionization Generator – Generator needed to create SkyeH.

10% - Broker & Processing Fees – Covering transaction costs and broker services.

Skye Hydration is currently selling reduced concentrate alkaline water to our co-packer so they can make alkaline water for their clients. While this water differs greatly from Skye<sup>H</sup>, we are excited to deepen our relationship with the industry.

billion

The enhanced bottled water market is $7.93 billion in 2024, growing at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.3%

PET is the major material used in terms of packaging bottled water. In 2016, the bottled water market surpassed soft drink sales and has continued that pattern today. In many grocery stores, bottled water choices have grown exponentially while its shelf footprint is growing. We believe hydrogen-enriched alkaline water in a beautiful reusable and recyclable aluminum bottle will make a popular alternative to a crowded space.
