

You've followed our growth at Janus Motorcycles—now own a piece of it.

Dear <<First Name>>,

Whether you've followed us from the very first model and prototypes or just joined in our ride to be the next great American Motorcycle Company, we know you're interested in our unique brand of motorcycling. You may own one of our motorcycles (or 2 or 3 or 4)... or you may be aspiring to ride someday.

We want to give you something no one else has: the chance to own a piece of Janus Motorcycle's next chapter.

We're at an inflection point that only comes once in a company's lifetime: We've helped define and usher in a new movement in small displacement motorcycling in America. There is demand for our kind of motorcycling. We grew our sales by more than 50% last year. We're building more bikes than we have before. Our chance to grow is here.

Here's what that looks like:

- We know that our profitability and continued success lies beyond 500 units annually. To get there takes working capital to increase our inventory and expand our facilities.
- We have new models we want to launch that will define the next era of American motorcycling.
- National media and industry leaders are taking notice of what we've built.
- Our order backlog tells a story of momentum that demands we scale up.
- Because of tariffs and suppliers pulling out of the market, our supply chain was greatly impacted for the first part of this year. We have a large backlog of orders and new suppliers identified that will reduce our costs but need working capital to ramp up our parts purchasing.

Before we take this opportunity to the general public, we wanted our followers to have access.

We've launched a Wefunder campaign, and have already gotten over $270K in commitments from our owners and closest supporters. Now it's your chance.

This is your moment to:

- Own equity in a company you've watched grow
- Be part of the manufacturing renaissance happening in American motorcycles
- Help us secure the resources to launch those new models you've been asking about
- Support the expansion that will let us serve riders across the country

The small displacement movement isn't just changing how Americans think about motorcycles — it's creating a new category entirely. And you were here before anyone else believed it could work.

Ready to see what we're building?

Help us write the next chapter of American Motorcycling.

Sincerely,

The Janus Team
