Special Operations Veteran

Summary

As the Director of Global Program Operations at Hala Systems, I oversee the planning, execution, and evaluation of complex and innovative projects that leverage technology and data to protect civilians and human rights in conflict zones. With 17+ years of work experience, I have a proven track record of leading and managing diverse and high-performing teams in challenging and dynamic environments.

I have also successfully applied my skills in organizational leadership, operational planning, and team building to previous roles as the Chief Operating Officer at Honor the Promise, a non-profit organization that supports Afghan military veterans and their families, and as an Associate in Corporate Development at JPMorgan Chase & Co., where I participated in strategic transactions and partnerships.

Prior to that, I served as a Special Operations Civil Affairs Officer in the US Army, where I gained valuable experience in the field of irregular warfare and the human domain. I hold an MBA from the Wharton School, with a focus on finance, and a BA in Political Science and Spanish from the University of Portland. I am passionate about leveraging my expertise and experience to create positive social impact and foster collaboration across sectors and cultures.
