Company Overview

UgenticAI, founded by entrepreneur Anik Singal, operates as a specialized AI holding company focused on the rapidly growing "Agentic AI" sector, designed to provide small and medium-sized businesses with a digital workforce of autonomous "AI Employees." Its core value proposition lies in its proprietary 4-layer BIVV technology (Brain, Image, Voice, and Video), which allows users to create a high-fidelity "AI Clone" of themselves to scale expertise without the bottleneck of manual labor. Looking ahead, UgenticAI plans to aggressively expand its portfolio into a comprehensive "full-stack" ecosystem by acquiring and building niche-specific AI agents for departments such as social media management, automated sales outreach, podcasting, and local marketing compliance.

Corporate Structure & History

UgenticAI was founded in 2025 and incorporated in Delaware. Headquartered in Rockville, Maryland, the company develops agentic AI products from its inhouse product development team and also acquires agentic AI companies to help grow and incorporate into its larger ecosystem of AI solutions and customers.

In August 2025, the company completed the related-party acquisition of Complily, an agentic AI company with a product focused on marketing compliance for businesses. Complily was acquired for a total consideration of approximately $6,420,000, consisting of $5,000,000 of UgenticAI, Inc. Stock (100,000,000 shares @ $0.05 Per share) and $1,420,000 of a promissory note payable to the founder of Complily, Inc. The acquisition constituted a related-party transaction. An outside firm did a 409A valuation on Complily. The terms were approved by the Company's management following internal review. Investors should review related-party transactions carefully as they may present potential conflicts of interest.

Competitors

Competitors in the space include AI cloning companies like HeyGen, Coachvox AI, and Delphi, and agentic AI platforms like Relevance AI, CrewAI, and Gumloop.

Additional competitors are companies looking to make early-stage AI acquisitions and those looking to have a significant role in offering broad AI solutions to businesses.

Current Stage

Ugentic AI's current product suite is centered around UgenticIQ, a no-code agentic platform that allows users to build and deploy autonomous "AI Employees" specialized in core business functions. The flagship offering features a proprietary 4-Layer BIVV (Brain, Image, Voice, and Video) Cloning technology, which enables entrepreneurs to create a digital twin capable of thinking, speaking, and appearing in content just like the original creator. These agents are designed to move beyond simple chatbots by executing complex workflows independently, such as managing social media channels, conducting data analysis, generating ad copy, and handling cold outreach, all while being trained on a user's specific expertise to ensure brand authenticity. To support this ecosystem, the company also provides the Ugentic ImageLab for professional visual generation and the UgenticAI Academy, an educational hub that trains business owners on how to integrate these autonomous agents into their daily operations. The UgenticIQ platform was borne from a mix of in-house software development and the acquisition of outside technologies. The Company plans to continue to grow its UgenticIQ platform by adding additional features through internal development and by acquisition when determined to be advantageous to the Company.

The Company is focused on acquiring certain AI companies and technologies that offer a wide range of agentic AI-powered solutions across many different markets. In August 2025, the company completed its acquisition of Complily, marking UgenticAI's first major acquisition and a core building block for its agentic AI ecosystem. Complily is an AI-powered marketing compliance product that offers businesses an automated solution to ensure all materials that a company may have for public consumption are compliant with FTC and FCC regulations. Complily's product can be used for advertisements, sales materials, websites, videos, emails, and any other form of communication that falls under federal regulation.

Additional acquisitions in 2025 were InvestingJournal, a finance-related newsletter, and ShortsPro, an AI-powered automation platform designed to create, edit, and publish short-form videos.

The Company currently makes money primarily through its Clone and UgenticIQ products, which charges a monthly SaaS fee for use of its product suite. Additional revenue comes from Complily, which charges an annual fee for use of its compliance software.

The Company also has a referral agreement in place with Expert Scale, Inc., a Company owned and controlled by Anik Singal. In this agreement, Expert Scale will act as an affiliate for Ugentic, bringing sales leads for a commission. This agreement will help boost Ugentic's revenue and customer growth.

The Company is an active supporting of charities and charitable donations, including a partnership with The Anik Singal Foundation and its RiseAI youth AI education initiative. The Company provides guidance and support for RiseAI.

Product Development Strategy

Ugentic's future growth strategy is built on a "buy and build" model, aiming to transform from a single-product tool into a one of the world's largest Agentic AI incubators. Product development will focus on expanding the UgenticIQ suite across 10 core marketing verticals, including automated podcasting, local marketing compliance, PR, and SEO, with the ultimate goal of deploying a full-stack, 24/7 AI workforce for over 100,000 entrepreneurs. By focusing on "Agentic" systems, AI that autonomously executes end-to-end business functions rather than just assisting with tasks, Ugentic intends to lead the transition from simple generative AI pilots to fully autonomous business operations globally.

M&A Strategy

UgenticAI is also focused on acquiring companies and technologies using agentic AI to address a wide array of problems across a diverse set of fields and markets. The focus is on companies that feature exciting technology, have large addressable markets, and have already started to gain traction in their field, either through growing customer bases, significant ARR, or patent approvals. As of May 2026, the Company has made 3 acquisitions.

UgenticAI is looking to acquire companies and technologies across a number of major verticals, falling into four major categories:

- AI for business and productivity improvement
- AI for marketing and content generation
- AI for finance, legal, and HR services
- AI for industry disruption.

As UgenticAI continues to acquire more agentic AI companies, we intend to incorporate these acquisitions into a single, cohesive ecosystem. UgenticAI will provide these companies access to growth capital, centralized administration, product development, marketing and operations. These resources will allow the companies to focus on making their products as effective as possible, and catered guidance and insight from experienced leaders who have successfully scaled early-stage companies before.

Most importantly, UgenticAI aims to provide these companies with access to a massive market of customers eager for their products, helping them gain traction, generate revenue, and scale into powerful and self-sustaining businesses.

Industry

The global artificial intelligence (“AI”) industry is undergoing rapid growth and transformation, underpinned by technological advances in machine learning, natural language processing, computer vision, and large language models (LLMs). According to market research firm Grand View Research, the global AI market was valued at approximately $196.6 billion in 2023, and the market projected to reach $826 billion by 2030 with a CAGR of 36% over that time.

As the capabilities of the technology continue to expand and improve in quality, more and more of the current workload done by people will be shifted over to AI-automated solutions. McKinsey’s research has estimated the AI could add over $2.6 trillion to the global economy across a wide range of sectors and markets.

Within the broader AI ecosystem, a new and rapidly evolving segment has emerged: Agentic AI. Agentic AI refers to systems that go beyond passive prediction or classification tasks and are capable of autonomous decision-making, goal pursuit, planning, and real-time adaptation in dynamic environments. These AI agents are designed to act on behalf of users or organizations, often coordinating complex sequences of tasks across digital and physical domains.

Unlike traditional AI models that require direct input for each task, agentic systems can initiate actions, monitor progress, adapt strategies, and interact with other agents or systems to fulfill high-level objectives with minimal human intervention. The new agentic systems will be able to open up new markets with significant potential for automation, including areas such as personal digital assistants, autonomous research agents, AI customer support, robotic process automation (RPA), and enterprise task delegation.

Investment in the Agentic AI space has accelerated markedly over the past two years, driven by demand for scalable automation, labor augmentation, and intelligent decision systems. The segment has attracted attention from major technology companies, venture capital firms, and research labs, many of which are actively developing frameworks and platforms for deploying agent-based applications.

Despite its promise, the Agentic AI sector remains in the early stages of development. Key challenges include ensuring reliability, safety, interpretability, and ethical alignment in autonomous systems, as well as establishing robust evaluation metrics and infrastructure standards. However, the rapid pace of research and commercialization suggests that Agentic AI is poised to become a foundational layer in the future of software and digital productivity.

The Company believes that its focus on this high-growth, frontier segment positions it at the leading edge of a transformative industry shift. As enterprises and consumers increasingly seek intelligent agents capable of autonomous task execution, the market opportunity for purpose-built Agentic AI platforms, tools, and integrated ecosystems is expected to expand significantly in the coming years.

IRA Investors

Please note: eligibility for investment perks, including but not limited to non-securities incentives offered relative to size or timing of investment, may vary depending on the funding method selected by the investor. Investors who choose to fund an investment via self-directed IRA proceeds from a supported IRA provider (e.g. Equity Trust Corporation, or others), will not be eligible to participate in incentive programs due to regulatory requirements for the use of self-directed IRA funds and limitations imposed thereby. Similarly, by choosing to fund an investment via self-directed IRA proceeds, investors acknowledge their responsibility to abstain from non-permitted personal use of goods or services provided by the issuer into which they are investing, in compliance with the Personal Benefit Rule according to the IRS Core Prohibitions for this investment type. To learn more about these restrictions, please visit the IRS website resources on IRAs (<https://www.irs.gov/retirement-plans/individual-retirement-arrangements-iras>) and Prohibited Transactions (<https://www.irs.gov/retirement-plans/plan-participant-employee/retirement-topics-prohibited-transactions>).

Investors who fund investments via IRA will not be eligible for any investor-exclusive benefits, including any investor-exclusive access to the issuer's platform or services. If participation in benefits or incentive programs is desired, an investor must fund their investment through non-IRA means (ACH bank transfer, card, etc.).

RISK FACTORS

Investing in the Securities involves a high degree of risk and may result in the loss of your entire investment. Before making an investment decision with respect to the Securities, we urge you to carefully consider the risks described in this section and other factors set forth in this Form C. The risks discussed below are not the only ones facing its business but do represent those risks that the Company believes are material to it. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to it or that the Company currently deems immaterial may also harm its business.

In addition to the risks specified below, the Company is subject to the same risks that all companies in its industry, and all companies in the economy, are exposed to. These include risks relating to economic downturns, political and economic events and technological developments (such as hacking and the ability to prevent hacking). Additionally, early-stage companies are inherently riskier than more developed companies. Prospective Investors should consult with their legal, tax and financial advisors prior to making an investment in the Securities. The Securities should only be purchased by persons who can afford to lose all of their investment.

Before investing, you should carefully read and carefully consider the following:

Risks Related to Our Company

We have a limited operating history upon which to evaluate our performance and have generated minimal profits and net income.

Complily, our wholly-owned subsidiary was first organized in 2024, and we still have a limited operating history and have yet to consistently generate operating profits or net income. We have been generating revenue since 2024, but we also continue to iterate on our products and technology and as such, cannot guarantee that our prior operating history will be indicative of our future operating results, or future products will be able to consistently generate revenue and operating profits.

Our audited consolidated financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2025, have been prepared on a going concern basis.

The Company has suffered recurring losses from operations and, as of December 31, 2025, had a net capital deficiency that raises substantial doubt about its ability to continue as a going concern. The Company's ability to continue as a going concern in the next twelve months following the date of the consolidated financial statements is dependent upon its ability to produce revenues and/or obtain financing sufficient to meet current and future obligations and deploy such to produce profitable operating results.

If the Company cannot raise sufficient funds, it will not succeed.

The Company may receive up to a maximum of approximately $4 million from the sale of Class B Common Stock in this Offering. Even if the maximum amount is raised, the Company is likely to need additional funds in the future in order to grow, and if it cannot raise those funds for whatever reason, including reasons relating to the Company itself or to the broader economy, it may not survive. If the Company manages to raise only the minimum amount of funds sought, it will have to find other sources of funding for some of the plans outlined in “Use of Proceeds.”

Any valuation at this stage is difficult to assess.

The valuation for the Offering was established by the Company. Unlike listed companies that are valued publicly through market-driven stock prices, the valuation of private companies, especially startups, is difficult to assess and you may risk overpaying for your investment.

The laws and standard behind artificial intelligence are uncertain and may change

AI is a new and emerging technology that is subject to varying degrees of regulation in different jurisdictions. Compliance with these laws can be costly and there is a risk of regulatory enforcement or litigation if we fail to comply with these requirements. Additionally, laws may change over time, which may increase our likelihood of non-compliance and potential enforcement. Because we are a smaller company, we may not have the resources to properly monitor and comply with any state, federal, and international laws around AI.

The AI industry has increasing competition

The AI technology sector is experiencing remarkable growth and intensifying competition as technology continues to advance. Companies across various industries, including marketing, recognize the transformative potential of AI. As AI capabilities expand and become more accessible, the industry’s competitive landscape will increase progress and create rivalry. Unexpected competition could adversely affect our market share, growth and profitability.

The Company depends on key personnel and faces challenges recruiting needed personnel.

The Company’s future success depends on the efforts of a small number of key personnel. These key personnel include our Chief Executive Officer, Anik Singal, and our Chief Financial Officer, Rich Ruggiero. In addition, due to its limited financial resources and the specialized expertise required across marketing, business development, and product development, it may not be able to recruit the individuals needed for its business needs. Further, as part of the order agreed to with the FTC, Anik Singal must provide certain notices to potential hires that could dissuade them from joining the Company. There can be no assurance that the Company will be successful in attracting and retaining the personnel the Company requires to operate and be innovative.

Competitors may be able to call on more resources than the Company.

While the Company believes that its platform and product are unique, it is not the only way that its customers and user base can earn supplemental income. Additionally, competitors may replicate our business ideas and produce directly competing products. These competitors may be better capitalized than us, which would give them a significant advantage.

Our new products and services could fail to achieve the market acceptance.

Our future success is partially based on an assumption that our new products will be able to gain traction in the marketplace. It is possible that these new products will fail to gain market acceptance for any number of reasons. If our products fail to achieve significant traction and acceptance in the marketplace, this could materially and adversely impact the value of your investment.

Our artificial intelligence products require significant capital to develop and commercialize, and our revenue prospects remain highly uncertain at this stage of our development

We are an early-stage company developing artificial intelligence-driven products and services. The nature of AI development requires us to incur substantial costs well in advance of generating meaningful revenue. These costs include, but are not limited to: model development and training, which demands significant computational resources; procurement and licensing of large proprietary and third-party datasets; investment in cloud and on-premise infrastructure; and hiring and retaining specialized talent in a highly competitive labor market. We have incurred significant operating losses since inception and expect to continue to do so for the foreseeable future.

Our ability to generate revenue from our AI products is subject to numerous risks and uncertainties. We operate in a nascent and intensely competitive market in which customer preferences, technological capabilities, and competitive offerings are evolving rapidly. We may be unable to attract sufficient customers, retain existing customers, or price our products in a manner that generates adequate margins to offset our development and operating costs. There is also a risk that our technology fails to achieve the performance levels required for commercial adoption, or that superior competing products emerge before we are able to establish a meaningful market position.

Expansion of our platform to a larger number of users will pose challenges.

As the number of customers using our platform grows, we will face challenges associated with managing our growth. For example, we may need to license rights from content developers. There is no guarantee that we will be able to license such rights at prices that are advantageous to the Company.

We have incurred significant indebtedness to our founder, which creates conflicts of interest and subjects the Company to risks associated with related party obligations.

We are party to one or more loan or promissory note arrangements with Anik Singal, our founder and CEO, pursuant to which the Company has borrowed an aggregate of approximately $848,088 as of May 2026. This indebtedness bears interest at a rate of 5% per annum and is not currently due and payable on December 1, 2028. The terms of this indebtedness were not negotiated on an arm's-length basis, and there can be no assurance that such terms are as favorable to the Company as those that could have been obtained from an unaffiliated third-party lender.

This related party debt presents several risks to prospective investors. First, our founder, as a creditor of the Company, holds interests that may not always be aligned with those of our equity holders, including investors in this offering. In the event of financial difficulty, insolvency, or dissolution, our founder's claims as a creditor would rank senior to the interests of equity holders, meaning that investors in this offering may receive little or no return on their investment even if the Company retains some residual value. Second, repayment of this indebtedness — whether at maturity, on demand, or upon an acceleration event — could materially and adversely affect the Company's liquidity and its ability to fund operations, product development, and growth initiatives. Third, our founder's dual role as both an equity holder and a creditor of the Company creates a potential conflict of interest in situations where decisions regarding repayment, refinancing, or modification of this debt must be made. There can be no assurance that our founder will not exercise rights under this debt in a manner that prioritizes recovery of his/her loans over the long-term interests of the Company and its investors.

We cannot assure investors that we will have sufficient cash flows from operations or financing activities to repay this indebtedness when due, or that our founder will agree to extend, convert, or otherwise modify the terms of this debt on acceptable terms or at all. The existence of this obligation may also limit our ability to obtain additional financing from third parties, as prospective lenders or investors may view the related party debt unfavorably. Prospective investors should carefully consider these risks before making an investment decision.

The Company is vulnerable to hackers and cyber-attacks.

As an internet-based business, we may be vulnerable to hackers who may access the data of the users of our platform. Further, any significant disruption in service on UgenticAI, our subsidiaries, or in its computer systems could reduce the attractiveness of the platform and result in a loss of investors and users interested in using our platform. Further, we rely on a third-party technology provider to provide some of our back-up technology. Any disruptions of services or cyber-attacks either on our technology provider or on UgenticAI could harm our reputation and materially negatively impact our financial condition and business.

Any breach of our users' data could impose liability upon the Company.

If we or third parties with which we do business were to fall victim to successful cyber-attacks or experience other cybersecurity incidents, including the loss of individually identifiable customer or other sensitive data, we may incur substantial costs and suffer other negative consequences, which may include liability for harms caused to our users from such a breach, or increased cybersecurity and other insurance premiums.

Risks Associated with the Company's Acquisition Strategy

We may fail to realize potential benefits from future acquisitions, which could adversely affect our business, financial condition, and results of operations.

Our growth strategy may include acquiring complementary technologies, services, products, and other assets. We may not be able to successfully integrate acquired assets or realize the anticipated benefits of such acquisitions. The successful integration of acquired assets requires significant time and resources, and we may incur significant costs with such integration. Additionally, the process of integrating acquired assets may disrupt our existing operations and relationships with employees, customers, and vendors, potentially resulting in the loss of key personnel, customers, or vendors.

We may not be able to identify or complete suitable acquisitions.

Our ability to continue to grow through asset acquisitions depends upon, among other things, our ability to identify suitable acquisition candidates, negotiate acceptable acquisition terms, and obtain any required financing. We compete with other potential acquirers for the same targets, which may increase acquisition costs or prevent us from acquiring assets we target. If we are unable to identify or complete suitable acquisitions, we may not be able to achieve our desired rate of growth.

Our acquisitions may result in significant costs, including unexpected or additional costs.

Any potential acquisition may result in significant costs, including costs relating to professional services fees, financing costs, and costs of integrating acquired assets. In addition, we may face challenges in integrating technological operations and platforms. If we are unable to manage these costs effectively or if we face greater-than-anticipated costs, our acquisitions may not yield the financial benefits we expect.

We may incur indebtedness to finance our acquisitions.

Acquisition costs may be in excess of the funds we are seeking to raise in this Offering. As a result, we may be required to incur indebtedness, which could adversely impact our credit ratings, limit our ability to obtain additional financing, increase our borrowing costs, and limit our flexibility to plan for, or react to, changes in our business or market conditions.

We may fail to conduct sufficient due diligence or to accurately assess the value of acquisition targets.

We may face challenges in conducting adequate due diligence on acquisition targets, particularly in competitive bidding situations where time constraints limit our investigation. As a result, we may not accurately assess the value of acquisition targets or identify issues that could result in financial loss, increased costs, or other adverse consequences that could harm our business, financial condition, or operating results.

Acquisitions may result in dilutive issuances of our equity securities.

We may issue equity securities to finance our acquisitions, which may result in dilution to our stockholders. In addition, if the acquired assets do not generate the financial results we expect, impairment charges could adversely affect our financial performance.

Risks Related to the Securities in this Offering

There is no current market for any shares of the Company's stock.

There is no formal marketplace for the resale of the Company's Class B Common Stock being sold in this Offering. Investors should assume that they may not be able to liquidate their investment for some time or be able to pledge their shares as collateral. The Company currently has no plans to list any of its shares on any OTC or similar exchange. It is also unlikely that the Company will ever go public or get acquired by a bigger company. That means the money you paid for these securities could be tied up for a long time.

Our Company is controlled by few shareholders.

A substantial majority of the Company's outstanding voting securities are held by one shareholder, who can therefore exert significant control over the Company. There are no guarantees that the position of this shareholder will always coincide with the opinion and interests of the other shareholders of the Company.

Investors in this Offering are purchasing Securities with No Voting Rights.

The Class B Common Stock that we are offering to investors in this offering has no voting rights. This means that you will have no rights in dictating on how the Company will be run. You are trusting in management discretion in making good business decisions that will grow your investment.

Our potential issuance of Bonus Shares may result in a discounted offering price being paid by certain investors in this Offering.

Certain investors may be entitled to Bonus Shares in this Offering, which results in an effective discount on any shares purchased. These shares will immediately dilute the value of your shares. Therefore, the value of shares of investors who pay the full price in this Offering will be diluted by investments made by investors entitled to these shares, who will effectively pay less per share. Investors may also suffer immediate dilution if they qualify for a lesser amount of Bonus Shares than other investors, who will effectively pay less per share.

There is no guarantee of return on investment.

There is no assurance that a purchaser will realize a return on its investment or that it will not lose its entire investment. For this reason, you should not invest in this Offering if you are unable to withstand losing your entire investment. Each purchaser should read this Form C and all exhibits carefully and should consult with its own attorney and business advisor prior to making any investment decision.

The Company's management has discretion as to use of proceeds.

The proceeds from this Offering will be used for the purposes described under "Use of Proceeds." The Company reserves the right to use the funds obtained from this Offering for other similar purposes not presently contemplated which it deems to be in the best interests of the Company and its investors in order to address changed circumstances or opportunities. As a result of the foregoing, the success of the Company will be substantially dependent upon the discretion and judgment of management with respect to application and allocation of the net proceeds of this Offering. Investors for the Class B Common Stock hereby will be entrusting their funds to the Company's management, upon whose judgment and discretion the investors must depend.

The Company's future fundraising may affect the rights of investors.

In order to expand, the Company is likely to raise funds again in the future, either by offerings of securities or through borrowing from banks or other sources. The terms of future capital raising, such as loan agreements, may include covenants that give creditors greater rights over the financial resources of the Company.

Our valuation and the offering price of our Class B Common Stock have been established internally and are difficult to assess.

The Company has set the price of its Class B Common Stock at $0.10 per share, see “Securities Being Offered” for further details on this fee. Valuations for companies at this stage are generally purely speculative. Our valuation has not been validated by any independent third party and may decrease precipitously in the future. It is a question of whether you, the investor, are willing to pay this price for a percentage ownership of a start-up company. The issuance of additional shares of Common Stock, or additional option grants may dilute the value of your holdings. You should not invest if you disagree with this valuation. See “Dilution” for more information.

The Company is fundraising at better terms than offered to investors in this Offering.

In addition to the previous capital raising conducted by the Company, the Company is currently conducting, and may in the future conduct, additional offerings of its SAFEs and/or equity securities under Rule 506(c) of Regulation D or other exemptions. The terms of those offerings may be more favorable to investors than the terms of this Offering, including but not limited to higher valuations, preferential rights, or other benefits. Investors in this Offering may experience dilution of their ownership percentage, economic interest, and voting power as a result of these concurrent or subsequent financings. There can be no assurance that the Company will not continue to raise capital on terms that are more favorable than those of this Offering.

The subscription agreement that investors must sign to invest in this Offering has a forum selection provision that requires disputes be resolved in state or federal courts in the State of Delaware, regardless of convenience or cost to you, the investor.

In order to invest in this Offering, investors agree to resolve disputes arising under the subscription agreement in state or federal courts located in the State of Delaware, for the purpose of any suit, action or other proceeding arising out of or based upon the agreement. Section 22 of the Securities Act creates concurrent jurisdiction for federal and state courts over all suits brought to enforce any duty or liability created by the Securities Act or the rules and regulations thereunder. We believe that the exclusive forum provision applies to claims arising under the Securities Act, but there is uncertainty as to whether a court would enforce such a provision in this context. Section 27 of the Exchange Act creates exclusive federal jurisdiction over all suits brought to enforce any duty or liability created by the Exchange Act or the rules and regulations thereunder. As a result, the exclusive forum provision will not apply to suits brought to enforce any duty or liability created by the Exchange Act or any other claim for which the federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction. You will not be deemed to have waived the Company’s compliance with the federal securities laws and the rules and regulations thereunder. This forum selection provision may limit your ability to obtain a favorable judicial forum for disputes with us. Alternatively, if a court were to find the provision inapplicable to, or unenforceable in an action, we may incur additional costs associated with resolving such matters in other jurisdictions, which could adversely affect our business, financial condition or results of operations.

Using a credit card to purchase shares may impact the return on your investment as well as subject you to other risks inherent in this form of payment.

Investors in this Offering have the option of paying for their investment with a credit card, which is not usual in the traditional investment markets. Transaction fees charged by your credit card company (which can reach 5% of transaction value if considered a cash advance) and interest charged on unpaid card balances (which can reach almost 25% in some states) add to the effective purchase price of the shares you buy. The cost of using a credit card may also increase if you do not make the minimum monthly card payments and incur late fees. Using a credit card is a relatively new form of payment for securities and will subject you to other risks inherent in this form of payment, including that, if you fail to make credit card payments (e.g. minimum monthly payments), you risk damaging your credit score and payment by credit card may be more susceptible to abuse than other forms of payment. Moreover, where a third-party payment processor is used, as in this Offering, your recovery options in the case of disputes may be limited. The increased costs due to transaction fees and interest may reduce the return on your investment.

The SEC's Office of Investor Education and Advocacy issued an Investor Alert dated February 14, 2018 entitled: Credit Cards and Investments – A Risky Combination, which explains these and other risks you may want to consider before using a credit card to pay for your investment.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission does not pass upon the merits of the Securities or the terms of the Offering, nor does it pass upon the accuracy or completeness of any Offering document or literature.

You should not rely on the fact that our Form C is accessible through the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's EDGAR filing system as an approval, endorsement or guarantee of compliance as it relates to this Offering. The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has not reviewed this Form C, nor any document or literature related or prior to this Offering.

The Securities are offered on a “Best Efforts” basis and the Company may not raise the maximum amount being offered.

Since the Company is offering the Securities on a “best efforts” basis, there is no assurance that the Company will sell enough Securities to meet its capital needs. If you purchase Securities in this Offering, you will do so without any assurance that the Company will raise enough money to satisfy the full Use of Proceeds which the Company has outlined in this Form C or to meet the Company's working capital needs.

The Company has the right to limit individual Investor commitment amounts based on the Company's determination of an Investor's sophistication.

The Company may prevent any Investor from committing more than a certain amount in this Offering based on the Company's determination of the Investor's sophistication and ability to assume the risk of the investment. This means that your desired investment amount may be limited or lowered based solely on the Company's determination and not in line with relevant investment limits set forth by the Regulation CF rules. This also means that other Investors may receive larger allocations of the Offering based solely on the Company's determination.

The Company has the right to extend the Offering Deadline.

The Company may extend the Offering Deadline beyond what is currently stated herein. This means that your investment may continue to be held in escrow while the Company attempts to raise the Target Offering Amount even after the Offering Deadline stated herein is reached. While you have the right to cancel your investment in the event the Company extends the Offering Deadline, if you choose to reconfirm your investment, your investment will not be accruing interest during this time and will simply be held until such time as the new Offering Deadline is reached without the Company receiving the Target Offering Amount, at which time it will be returned to you without interest or deduction, or the Company receives the Target Offering Amount, at which time it will be released to the Company to be used as set forth herein. Upon or shortly after the release of such funds to the Company, the Securities will be issued and distributed to you.

The Company may also end the Offering early.

If the Target Offering Amount is met after 21 calendar days, but before the Offering Deadline, the Company can end the Offering by providing notice to Investors at least 5 business days prior to the end of the Offering. This means your failure to participate in the Offering in a timely manner, may prevent you from being able to invest in this Offering – it also means the Company may limit the amount of capital it can raise during the Offering by ending the Offering early.

The Company has the right to conduct multiple closings during the Offering.

If the Company meets certain terms and conditions, an intermediate close (also known as a rolling close) of the Offering can occur, which will allow the Company to draw down on Investor proceeds committed and captured in the Offering during the relevant period. The Company may choose to continue the Offering thereafter. Investors should be mindful that this means they can make multiple investment commitments in the Offering, which may be subject to different cancellation rights. For example, if an intermediate close occurs and later a material change occurs as the Offering continues, Investors whose investment commitments were previously closed upon will not have the right to re-confirm their investment as it will be deemed to have been completed prior to the material change.

The Securities will not be freely tradable under the Securities Act until one year from the initial purchase date. Although the Securities may be tradable under federal securities law, state securities regulations may apply, and each Investor should consult with their attorney.

You should be aware of the long-term nature of this investment. There is not now and may never be a public market for the Securities. Because the Securities have not been registered under the Securities Act or under the securities laws of any state or foreign jurisdiction, the Securities have transfer restrictions and cannot be resold in the United States except pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF. It is not currently contemplated that registration under the Securities Act or other securities laws will be effected. Limitations on the transfer of the Securities may also adversely affect the price that you might be able to obtain for the Securities in a private sale. In addition, even if a trading market develops, there is absolutely no assurance that the Securities could be sold under Rule 144 or otherwise unless the Company becomes a current public reporting company with the Securities and Exchange Commission and otherwise is current in the Company's business, financial and management information reporting, and applicable holding periods have been satisfied. Investors should be aware of the long-term nature of their investment in the Company. Each Investor in this Offering will be required to represent that they are purchasing the Securities for their own account, for investment purposes and not with a view to resale or distribution thereof.

There is no guarantee of a return on an Investor's investment.

There is no assurance that an Investor will realize a return on their investment or that they will not lose their entire investment. For this reason, each Investor should read this Form C and all Exhibits carefully and should consult with their attorney and business advisor prior to making any investment decision.

IN ADDITION TO THE RISKS LISTED ABOVE, RISKS AND UNCERTAINTIES NOT PRESENTLY KNOWN, OR WHICH WE CONSIDER IMMATERIAL AS OF THE DATE OF THIS FORM C, MAY ALSO HAVE AN ADVERSE EFFECT ON OUR BUSINESS AND RESULT IN THE TOTAL LOSS OF YOUR INVESTMENT.

THE OFFERING

The following summary highlights information contained elsewhere or incorporated by reference in this Form C, including without limitation the Subscription Agreement located at Exhibit C. This summary may not contain all of the information that may be important to you. You should read this entire Form C carefully, including the matters discussed under the section titled “Risk Factors,” and thoroughly review any attached documents to, or documents referenced in, this Form C.

The purpose of this Offering is to generate additional capital to pursue marketing activities and technology and product development. See “Use of Proceeds” section for more information.

Dilution

The Securities do not have anti-dilution rights, which means that future equity issuances and other events will dilute the ownership percentage that Investors may eventually have in the Company. Investors should understand and expect the potential for dilution. The Investor's stake in the Company could be diluted due to the Company issuing additional shares of stock or other convertible securities to other parties. In other words, when the Company issues more shares, the percentage of the Company that you own will go down, even though the value of the Company may go up (there is no guarantee that it will). You will own a smaller piece of a larger Company (or, if the value goes down, then a smaller piece of a smaller company). This increase in number of shares outstanding could result from a stock offering (such as an initial public offering, another crowdfunding round, a venture capital round or angel investment), employees exercising stock options, or by conversion of certain instruments (e.g. convertible bonds, preferred shares or warrants) into stock. If the Company decides to issue more shares, an investor could experience value dilution, with each share being worth less than before, and control dilution, with the total percentage an investor owns being less than before. There may also be earnings dilution, with a reduction in the amount earned per share (though this typically occurs only if the company offers dividends, and most early-stage companies are unlikely to offer dividends, preferring to invest any earnings into the company).

The type of dilution that hurts early-stage investors most occurs when the company sells more shares in a "down round," meaning at a lower valuation than in earlier offerings. An example of how this might occur is as follows (numbers are for illustrative purposes only):

- In June 2024 Jane invests $20,000 for shares that represent 2% of a company valued at $1 million.

- In December the company is doing very well and sells $5 million in shares to venture capitalists on a valuation (before the new investment) of $10 million. Jane now owns only 1.3% of the company but her stake is worth $200,000.

- In June 2025 the company has run into serious problems and in order to stay afloat it raises $1 million at a valuation of only $2 million (the “down round”). Jane now owns only 0.89% of the company and her stake is worth only $26,660.

This type of dilution might also happen upon conversion of convertible notes into shares. Typically, the terms of convertible notes issued by early-stage companies provide that in the event of another round of financing, the holders of the convertible notes get to convert their notes into equity at a “discount” to the price paid by the new investors, i.e., they get more shares than the new investors would for the same price. Additionally, convertible notes may have a “price cap” on the conversion price, which effectively acts as a share price ceiling. Either way, the holders of the convertible notes get more shares for their money than new investors. In the event that the financing is a “down round” the holders of the convertible notes will dilute existing equity holders, and even more than the new investors do, because they get more shares for their money. Investors should pay careful attention to the aggregate total amount of convertible notes that the company has issued (and may issue in the future, and the terms of those notes.

If you are making an investment expecting to own a certain percentage of the company or expecting each share to hold a certain amount of value, it’s important to realize how the value of those shares can decrease by actions taken by the company. Dilution can make drastic changes to the value of each share, ownership percentage, voting control, and earnings per share.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Please see the financial information listed on the cover page of this Form C and attached hereto in addition to the following information. Financial statements are attached hereto as Exhibit F.

The following discussion of our financial condition and results of operations should be read in conjunction with our financial statements and the related notes included in this Form C. The following discussion contains forward-looking statements that reflect our plans, estimates, and beliefs. Our actual results could differ materially from those discussed in the forward-looking statements.

For the Fiscal Year Ending December 31, 2025

For the fiscal year ending December 31, 2025, the Company recognized revenue of $2,210,988 compared to revenue of $67,294 for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2024, an increase of over 3100%. The majority of this revenue came from the Company's Clone product, UgenticIQ and Complily. Costs of revenue for 2025 were $6,302, compared to costs of revenue of $6,759 for 2024. Costs of revenue consist primarily of hosting costs, which are relatively low. Finally, the Company recognized gross profit of $2,204,686 in 2025, compared to $60,535 in 2024. The increase in revenue and profit in 2025 was related to the Company launching new products, including its Clone product which is discussed above in the Company Overview section.

Additionally, the Company had $4,999,124 in operating expenses for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025 compared to $382,749 for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2024, growing by over 1200%. This growth was driven by increased marketing and advertising expenses to help promote the Company's products and webinars. Marketing and advertising grew from $5,768 to $1,177,646 from 2024 to 2025. The increase in operating expenses was also driven by increased hiring of full-time employees and contractors to help support the Company's growing revenue and operations. The majority of the Company's new hires came in the second half of 2025 as the Company began increasing its product development and marketing activities. These expenses grew from $70,210 in 2024 to $3,430,932 in 2025. Finally, additional operating expenses in 2025 were $271,664 in research and development expenses, compared to $261,597 in 2024, $110,930 in rent and leases, compared to $45,174 in 2024, and $7,952 in depreciation and amortization, compared to $0 in 2024. The Company also recognized $135,042 in total other expenses in 2025, compared to $95 in 2024. The primary driver of the increase in total other expenses was related to interest expense from the Company's outstanding convertible and promissory notes.

The above gross profit and expenses resulted in the Company recognizing a net loss of $2,929,480 in 2025, compared to a net loss of $322,309 in 2024.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Through the fiscal year ending December 31, 2025, the Company had cash on hand of $1,437,734 and total assets of $2,236,758. |

As of May 4th, 2026 the Company had cash on hand of $1,248,517. While the Company has seen a significant increase in revenues and gross profits since inception, these gross profits are currently unable to sustain the Company's expenses. The Company expects that revenue and gross profit will continue to grow in 2026, however, it plans to continue to rely on outside capital, including equity capital and debt to fund operations and growth.

Trend Information

The Company has plans to grow revenue in 2026 and beyond primarily via its Clone and AI products. This will come primarily through increased marketing and advertising expenses, as well as research and development expenses to expand into new product categories. Additionally, the Company may plan to acquire additional assets and companies in the agentic AI space in the coming months and years as a part of its growth strategy. Future acquisitions may also include the addition of other operating expenses and headcount. In some cases, the Company will focus on reducing operating costs by leveraging a shared-services model and using a centralized team to save on costs for finance, human resources, product development, and other general and administrative expenses.

Valuation

Although the Securities provide certain terms, which may include a valuation cap, the Company has ascribed no pre-Offering valuation to the Company; the Securities are priced arbitrarily and the Company makes no representations as to the reasonableness of any specified valuation cap.
