Summary

I build organizations and empower people to achieve. As a partner in several companies, I learn more everyday how important people and relationships are to the success of enterprise. This is, in large part, why I'm passionate about people and empowering them to realize their potential; it's also just plain satisfying to watch someone grow into their own... A fulfilled life and successful business are about meeting people's needs and desires. How can we reach the top together? If I help you win, we both win.

I've traversed several industries and gained a diverse skillset since I began my professional and entrepreneurial career at 15... It feels a bit arrogant to boast about myself, so I'll share some things I hear about myself from others often: I'm an excellent communicator and public speaker. I've learned to leverage my passion for people as an effective impact leader. I can create and communicate a powerful vision. I can build systems and processes to execute on that vision. I'm a great teacher. I'm patient and even keeled, but passionate, even fiery when needed. I'm proficient in technology, and, like MacGyver, I can figure out and fix damn near anything. :)
