RISK FACTORS

A crowdfunding investment involves risk. Investors should not invest any funds unless they can afford to lose the entire investment.

These securities have not been recommended or approved by any federal or state securities commission or regulatory authority. > Anomaly1, LLC has a very limited operating history upon which investors can evaluate our business and prospects. We are an early-stage film production company with only two employees and have not yet completed production of our feature film. Our business model is unproven, and we have no track record of successfully producing, distributing, or monetizing film content. The film production industry is highly competitive and unpredictable, with the vast majority of independent film projects failing to recoup their production costs. There can be no assurance that we will be able to complete production of our film, secure distribution, or generate any revenue from our project. Investors should be aware that investment in an early-stage film production company carries substantial risk of total loss.

> Our success depends entirely on the efforts and abilities of our small team of only two employees. The loss of services of either key team member could have a severe adverse effect on our ability to complete our film project and execute our business plan. We face significant challenges in attracting and retaining additional qualified personnel, including directors, producers, cinematographers, and other creative and technical staff necessary for film production. The entertainment industry is highly competitive for talent, and we may not be able to compete effectively with larger, better-funded production companies for skilled personnel. We do not maintain key person life insurance on any of our team members. If we are unable to retain our current personnel or attract additional qualified individuals, our ability to develop and produce our film will be materially and adversely affected.

> Our business model of creating an immersive, interactive investigation dossier as a means to attract film industry funders, agents, and producers is novel and unproven. There is no assurance that this approach will be effective in securing the additional financing, distribution deals, or industry partnerships necessary to complete and distribute our feature film. The entertainment industry has established methods for pitching and packaging film projects, and our departure from traditional approaches may not resonate with potential funders or distributors. Additionally, even if we successfully attract industry attention, there is no guarantee that our film concept will achieve market acceptance with audiences or generate sufficient revenue to provide returns to investors. The failure of our business model or our film to achieve market acceptance would result in the loss of invested capital.

> Film production is an inherently risky endeavor subject to numerous uncertainties and potential obstacles. We face substantial risks in completing production of our feature film, including but not limited to: securing adequate financing for production costs, assembling a qualified cast and crew, managing complex production schedules and logistics, addressing creative differences, dealing with technical challenges, and completing post-production work including editing, visual effects, and sound design. Production delays, cost overruns, creative disputes, or technical failures are common in the film industry and could prevent us from completing our film or significantly increase our costs. Additionally, the quality of the final film product may not meet our expectations or industry standards, which would adversely affect our ability to secure distribution and generate revenue. There can be no assurance that we will successfully complete production of our film or that the completed film will be of sufficient quality to attract distributors or audiences.

We have very limited cash reserves and will require substantial additional funding to complete development, packaging, and production of our feature film. Film production typically requires significant capital investment, and our current resources are insufficient to fund our planned activities. We do not have any contracts or commitments for additional funding, and there can be no assurance that financing will be available on acceptable terms, if at all. Our ability to raise additional capital will depend on numerous factors, including the perceived viability of our project, conditions in the capital markets, and investor appetite for entertainment industry investments. If we are unable to obtain additional financing when needed, we will be required to delay, reduce the scope of, or eliminate our film production activities. The inability to secure adequate funding would prevent us from completing our film and would likely result in the total loss of invested capital.

We have not generated any revenue to date and there is substantial uncertainty regarding our ability to generate revenue or achieve profitability in the future. Our ability to generate revenue depends entirely on completing our film, securing distribution through theatrical release, streaming platforms, or other channels, and achieving sufficient audience viewership and engagement. The film industry is highly unpredictable, and the vast majority of independent films fail to generate significant revenue or recoup their production and marketing costs. Even if we complete our film and secure distribution, there is no assurance that it will be commercially successful or generate sufficient revenue to provide returns to investors. We expect to continue incurring losses and operating expenses for the foreseeable future. Investors should be prepared for the possibility that we may never generate revenue or achieve profitability, resulting in the total loss of their investment.

The entertainment and film production industry is intensely competitive, with thousands of film projects competing for financing, distribution, and audience attention each year. We face competition from major film studios with substantially greater financial resources, established relationships with distributors and exhibitors, recognized brands, and proven track records. We also compete with numerous independent film production companies, streaming content producers, and other forms of entertainment for consumer attention and spending. Major studios and well-funded competitors can outspend us in production values, marketing, and talent acquisition, making it difficult for independent films to gain visibility and market share. Additionally, the proliferation of content across multiple platforms has made it increasingly challenging for any single film to break through and capture audience attention. Our ability to compete effectively is uncertain, and we may be unable to differentiate our film sufficiently to achieve commercial success in this crowded marketplace.

Our ability to generate revenue from our film is entirely dependent on securing distribution agreements with theatrical exhibitors, streaming platforms, or other distribution channels. We have no existing distribution agreements or commitments, and there is no assurance that we will be able to secure distribution on favorable terms, or at all. The film distribution landscape has undergone significant disruption in recent years, with traditional theatrical distribution declining and streaming platforms becoming increasingly selective about content acquisition. Distribution partners typically have significant negotiating leverage and may demand terms that are unfavorable to us, including retaining substantial portions of revenue, requiring extensive marketing commitments, or imposing creative controls. Additionally, distribution partners may change their content strategies, reduce acquisition budgets, or go out of business, any of which could adversely affect our ability to monetize our film. Without securing appropriate distribution, our film will have limited or no ability to reach audiences and generate revenue.

Our business depends on our ability to protect the intellectual property rights in our film concept, screenplay, and related creative materials. We rely on copyright protection, trade secrets, and confidential information to protect our creative work. However, intellectual property rights in the entertainment industry can be difficult to protect and enforce, particularly for story concepts and ideas that may have similarities to other works. We face the risk that others may copy or misappropriate our creative concepts, characters, or story elements. Additionally, we face the risk that third parties may claim that our film infringes upon their intellectual property rights, including copyrights, trademarks, or rights of publicity. The entertainment industry is subject to frequent intellectual property disputes, and defending against infringement claims or pursuing claims against others can be extremely costly and time-consuming. An adverse determination in any intellectual property litigation could require us to pay substantial damages, modify or cease distribution of our film, or obtain costly licenses, any of which would materially harm our business and financial condition.

The film production industry is subject to various federal, state, and local regulations, as well as requirements imposed by entertainment industry guilds and unions. We may be required to comply with regulations from the Screen Actors Guild (SAG-AFTRA), Directors Guild of America (DGA), Writers Guild of America (WGA), and other industry organizations, which impose specific requirements regarding compensation, working conditions, credits, and residual payments. Compliance with these guild agreements can significantly increase production costs and impose operational constraints. Additionally, film production is subject to workplace safety regulations, location filming permits, insurance requirements, and various other regulatory obligations. Changes to existing regulations or the adoption of new requirements could increase our compliance costs or require changes to our production plans. Failure to comply with applicable regulations or guild requirements could result in fines, penalties, work stoppages, or restrictions on our ability to distribute our film, any of which would adversely affect our business.

Our film production activities are vulnerable to disruption from external events beyond our control, including pandemics, natural disasters, extreme weather events, geopolitical conflicts, and other force majeure events. The COVID-19 pandemic demonstrated the severe impact that such events can have on film production, causing widespread production shutdowns, delays, and increased costs due to safety protocols. Similar disruptions could prevent us from completing production on schedule or within budget, or could make production impossible for extended periods. Additionally, economic downturns and recessions can significantly impact the entertainment industry by reducing consumer discretionary spending on entertainment, decreasing advertising revenue, and limiting the availability of financing for film projects. Such external events could delay or prevent completion of our film, increase our costs, reduce potential revenue, or make it impossible to continue our business operations.

An investment in Anomaly1, LLC is highly speculative and involves a substantial risk of loss. Investors should be prepared for the possibility of losing their entire investment. We are an early-stage company with no revenue, very limited cash reserves, and an unproven business model in a highly competitive and unpredictable industry. The film production business is inherently risky, with the majority of independent films failing to recoup their production costs. There is no assurance that we will complete our film, secure distribution, generate any revenue, or provide any return to investors. The securities being offered are suitable only for investors who can afford to lose their entire investment and who understand and accept the high-risk nature of investing in early-stage entertainment ventures.

There is no public market for the securities being offered, and none is expected to develop in the foreseeable future. The securities have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933 or any state securities laws and may not be sold or transferred except in compliance with applicable securities laws and regulations. Investors will be subject to restrictions on transfer and will be required to hold the securities for an indefinite period of time. Even after any applicable holding periods expire, there may be no buyers for the securities, and investors may be unable to liquidate their investment. Investors should be prepared to hold these securities indefinitely and should not invest funds that they may need to access in the short or medium term. The lack of liquidity may also make it difficult or impossible for investors to value their investment accurately.

We will need to raise substantial additional capital to fund our film production and business operations. Any future equity financings, whether through the issuance of common stock, preferred stock, convertible debt, or other securities, will dilute the ownership percentage of existing investors. We may issue securities with rights, preferences, or privileges senior to those of the securities being offered in this offering. Future investors may negotiate terms more favorable than those available to current investors. The issuance of additional securities will reduce the percentage ownership and voting power of current investors and may reduce the economic rights associated with their securities. There is no limit on the amount of securities we may issue in the future, and we may conduct multiple financing rounds that result in significant dilution to early investors. The dilutive effect of future financings could substantially reduce the value of the securities purchased in this offering.

Management expects to apply oversubscription proceeds toward production and distribution activities but may reallocate based on financing needs, co-production opportunities, and industry conditions.

DELIVERY & CANCELLATIONS

11. How will the issuer complete the transaction and deliver securities to the investors?

If we reach our target offering amount prior to the deadline, we may conduct an initial closing of the offering early if we provide notice about the new offering deadline at least five business days prior to the new offering deadline (absent a material change that would require an extension of the offering and reconfirmation of the investment commitment). Wefunder will notify investors if we conduct an initial closing. Thereafter, we may conduct additional closings from time to time at our and Wefunder's discretion until the deadline date.

The following describes the process to invest in the Company, including how the Company will complete an Investor's transaction and deliver securities to the investor.

Investor Commitment. The Investor will submit, through Wefunder Portal, a requested investment amount. When doing so, the Investor will also execute an investment contract with the Company ("Investment Agreement"), using the Investor's electronic signature.

Acceptance of the Investment. If the Investor Agreement is complete, the Investor's commitment will typically be recorded within a few minutes. The commitment will also be available on the Investor's "My Investments" screen on the wefunder.com website. After the offering closes, the contract will be counter-signed by the Company. The executed investment contract will then be sent to the investor via email, and is also available to download on the "My Investments" screen.

Investor Transfer of Funds. Upon receiving confirmation that an investment has been accepted, the Investor will be responsible for transferring funds from a source that is accepted by Wefunder Portal into an escrow account held with a third party bank on behalf of issuers offering securities through Wefunder Portal.

Progress of the Offering. The Investor will receive periodic email updates on the progress of the offering, including total amounts raised at any given time, and will be notified by email and through the "My Investments" screen when the target offering amount is met.

Closing; Original Deadline. Unless we meet the target offering amount early, Investor funds will be transferred from the escrow account to the Company on the deadline date identified in the Cover Page to this Form C and the Company's Wefunder Portal Profile.

Early Closings. If the target offering amount is met prior to the original deadline date, we may close the offering earlier, but no less than 21 days after the date on which information about the Company, including this Form C, is posted on our Wefunder Portal Profile. We will reschedule the offering deadline, and at least five days prior to the new deadline, investors will receive notice of it by email and through the "My Investments" screen. At the time of the new deadline, your funds will be transferred to the Company from the escrow account, provided that the target offering amount is still met after any cancellations.

Book Entry. Investments may be in book entry form. This means that the Investor may not receive a certificate representing his or her investment. Each investment will be recorded in our books and records and will be recorded in each Investors' "My Investments" screen. The Investor will also be emailed the Investment Agreement again. The Investment Agreement will also be available on the "My Investments" screen. At the option of the Company, you may receive an electronic certificate.

12. How can an investor cancel an investment commitment?

NOTE: Investors may cancel an investment commitment until 48 hours prior to the deadline identified in these offering materials.

The intermediary will notify investors when the target offering amount has been met. If the issuer reaches the target offering amount prior to the deadline identified in the offering materials, it may close the offering early if it provides notice about the new offering deadline at least five business days prior to such new offering deadline.

If an investor does not cancel an investment commitment before the 48-hour period prior to the offering deadline, the funds will be released to the issuer upon closing of the offering and the investor will receive securities in exchange for his or her investment.

If an investor does not reconfirm his or her investment commitment after a material change is made to the offering, the investor's investment commitment will be canceled and the committed funds will be returned.

An Investor's right to cancel. An Investor may cancel his or her investment commitment at any time until 48 hours prior to the offering deadline.

If there is a material change to the terms of the offering or the information provided to the Investor about the offering and/or the Company, the Investor will be provided notice of the change and must re-confirm his or her investment commitment within five business days of receipt of the notice. If the Investor does not reconfirm, he or she will receive notifications disclosing that the commitment was cancelled, the reason for the cancellation, and the refund amount that the investor is required to receive. If a material change occurs within five business days of the maximum number of days the offering is to remain open, the offering will be extended to allow for a period of five business days for the investor to reconfirm.

If the Investor cancels his or her investment commitment during the period when cancellation is permissible, or does not reconfirm a commitment in the case of a material change to the investment, or the offering does not close, all of the Investor's funds will be returned within five business days.

Within five business days of cancellation of an offering by the Company, the Company will give each investor notification of the cancellation, disclose the reason for the cancellation, identify the refund amount the Investor will receive, and refund the Investor's funds.

The Company's right to cancel. The Investment Agreement you will execute with us provides the Company the right to cancel for any reason before the offering deadline.

If the sum of the investment commitments from all investors does not equal or exceed the target offering amount at the time of the offering deadline, no securities will be sold in the offering, investment commitments will be cancelled and committed funds will be returned.

Ownership and Capital Structure

THE OFFERING

13. Describe the terms of the securities being offered.

RECOUPMENT. Provided that Company has completed the Offering, and Financier is not in breach of this Agreement, Company agrees to repay to Financier the Financing Amount, together with a twenty percent (20%) premium thereon ("Financier Recoupment"), solely from Gross Receipts (if any) in accordance with this Paragraph 5. "Gross Receipts" as used herein shall mean all non-returnable, non-forfeitable sums derived by, or credited to, Company or any of its affiliated or related parties from the distribution, exhibition, and other exploitation of the Picture (but not any sequel, prequel, spinoff or other subsidiary or derivative film/TV/web productions), any merchandising, publishing, soundtrack and other allied and/or ancillary rights relating thereto and any other funds received by or credited to Company or any of its affiliated or related parties from the exploitation of the Picture. Gross Receipts, if any, of the Picture shall be allocated in the following order: a. First, to the payment of the following: i. Next, to the payment of any loans, plus reasonable interest thereon; c. Next, for the payment of any actual Deferments, which deferments shall not exceed 30% of the final budget of the Picture. As used herein, "Deferments" shall mean arrangements for the deferral of some or all of the costs of goods and/or services in the Production Budget provided by the supplier of such goods and/or services; and e. Finally, to Net Receipts. Company shall receive Fifty Percent (50%) of Net Receipts ("Company's Net Receipts") and the other Fifty Percent (50%) of Net Receipts shall be "Financier's Net Receipts." Financier shall receive such percentage of Financier's Net Receipts equal to the percentage that the Financing Amount advanced to Company represents to the actual Production Budget, which may exceed the estimated Production Budget as set forth herein.

See exact security attached as Appendix B, Investor Contracts.

14. Do the securities offered have voting rights?

- ☐ Yes
- ☑ No

15. Are there any limitations on any voting or other rights identified above?

Yes: No Voting Rights

16. How may the terms of the securities being offered be modified?

No alteration, modification, or waiver, in whole or in part, of any provision of this Agreement shall be of any effect unless set forth in writing and signed by both parties hereto. A waiver by either party of any breach or default by the other party shall not be construed as a waiver of the same or any other breach or default by such party.

Pursuant to authorization in the Investor Agreement between each Investor and Wefunder Portal, Wefunder Portal is authorized to take the following actions with respect to the investment contract between the Company and an investor:

Wefunder Portal may amend the terms of an investment contract, provided that the amended terms are more favorable to the investor than the original terms; and Wefunder Portal may reduce the amount of an investor's investment if the reason for the reduction is that the Company's offering is oversubscribed.

Restrictions on Transfer of the Securities Being Offered:

The securities being offered may not be transferred by any purchaser of such securities during the one year period beginning when the securities were issued, unless such securities are transferred:

1. to the issuer;
2. to an accredited investor;
3. as part of an offering registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission; or
4. to a member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent, to a trust controlled by the purchaser, to a trust created for the benefit of a member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent, or in connection with the death or divorce of the purchaser or other similar circumstance.

NOTE: The term "accredited investor" means any person who comes within any of the categories set forth in Rule 501(a) of Regulation D, or who the seller reasonably believes comes within any of such categories, at the time of the sale of the securities to that person.

The term "member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent" includes a child, stepchild, grandchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, spouse or spousal equivalent, sibling, mother-in-law, father-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law of the purchaser, and includes adoptive relationships. The term "spousal equivalent" means a cohabitant occupying a relationship generally equivalent to that of a spouse.

Description of Issuer's Securities

17. What other securities or classes of securities of the issuer are outstanding? Describe the material terms of any other outstanding securities or classes of securities of the issuer.

| Class of Security | Authorized | Outstanding | Voting rights |

| Class of Security | Total Pool |
|---|---|
| Warrants | — |
| Options | — |

Describe any other rights:

This is an LLC with no issued units.

18. How may the rights of the securities being offered be materially limited, diluted or qualified by the rights of any other class of security identified above?

Because the Investor holds no voting rights in the company, the holders of a majority-in-interest of voting rights in the Company could limit the Investor's rights in a material way. For example, those interest holders could vote to change the terms of the agreements governing the Company's operations or cause the Company to engage in additional offerings (including potentially a public offering). These decisions could affect gross revenues and diminish payments made to Investors.

Based on the risk that the company may never realize revenues or face a Default Event, the Investor may never see any returns.

Additional risks related to the rights of other security holders are discussed below, in Question 20.

19. Are there any differences not reflected above between the securities being offered and each other class of security of the issuer?

No.

20. How could the exercise of rights held by the principal shareholders identified in Question 6 above affect the purchasers of the securities being offered?

As holders of a majority-in-interest of voting rights in the Company, the unitholders may make decisions with which the Investor disagrees, or that negatively affect the value of the Investor's securities in the Company, and the Investor will have no recourse to change these decisions. The Investor's interests may conflict with those of other investors, and there is no guarantee that the Company will develop in a way that is optimal for or advantageous to the Investor.

For example, the unitholders may change the terms of the operating agreement for the company, change the terms of securities issued by the Company, change the management of the Company, and even force out minority holders of securities. The unitholders may make changes that affect the tax treatment of the Company in ways that are unfavorable to you but favorable to them. They may also vote to engage in new offerings and/or to register certain of the Company's securities in a way that negatively affects the value of the securities the Investor owns. Other holders of securities of the Company may also have access to more information than the Investor, leaving the Investor at a disadvantage with respect to any decisions regarding the securities he or she owns.

The unitholders have the right to redeem their securities at any time. Unitholders could decide to force the Company to redeem their securities at a time that is not favorable to the Investor and is damaging to the Company. Investors' exit may affect the value of the Company and/or its viability.

In cases where the rights of holders of convertible debt, SAFES, or other outstanding options or warrants are exercised, or if new awards are granted under our equity compensation plans, an Investor's interests in the Company may be diluted. This means that the pro rata portion of the Company represented by the Investor's securities will decrease, which could also diminish the Investor's voting and/or economic rights. In addition, as discussed above, if a majority-in-interest of holders of securities with voting rights cause the Company to issue additional units, an Investor's interest will typically also be diluted.

21. How are the securities being offered being valued? Include examples of methods for how such securities may be valued by the issuer in the future, including during subsequent corporate actions.

The offering price for the securities offered pursuant to this Form C has been determined arbitrarily by the Company, and does not necessarily bear any relationship to the Company's book value, assets, earnings or other generally accepted valuation criteria. In determining the offering price, the Company did not employ investment banking firms or other outside organizations to make an independent appraisal or evaluation. Accordingly, the offering price should not be considered to be indicative of the actual value of the securities offered hereby.

In the future, we will perform valuations of our common units that take into account factors such as the following:

unrelated third party valuations of our common units;

the price at which we sell other securities, such as convertible debt or preferred units, in light of the rights, preferences and privileges of our those securities relative to those of our common units;

our results of operations, financial position and capital resources;

current business conditions and projections;

the lack of marketability of our common units;

the hiring of key personnel and the experience of our management;

the introduction of new products;

the risk inherent in the development and expansion of our products;

our stage of development and material risks related to our business;

the likelihood of achieving a liquidity event, such as an initial public offering or a sale of our company given the prevailing market conditions and the nature and history of our business;

industry trends and competitive environment;

trends in consumer spending, including consumer confidence;

overall economic indicators, including gross domestic product, employment, inflation and interest rates; and the general economic outlook.

We will analyze factors such as those described above using a combination of financial and market-based methodologies to determine our business enterprise value. For example, we may use methodologies that assume that businesses operating in the same industry will share similar characteristics and that the Company's value will correlate to those characteristics, and/or methodologies that compare transactions in similar securities issued by us that were conducted in the market.

22. What are the risks to purchasers of the securities relating to minority ownership in the issuer?

An Investor in the Company will likely hold a minority position in the Company, and thus be limited as to its ability to control or influence the governance and operations of the Company.

The marketability and value of the Investor's interest in the Company will depend upon many factors outside the control of the Investor. The Company will be managed by its officers and be governed in accordance with the strategic direction and decision-making of its Management, and the Investor will have no independent right to name or remove an officer or member of the Management of the Company.

Following the Investor's investment in the Company, the Company may sell interests to additional investors, which will dilute the percentage interest of the Investor in the Company. The Investor may have the opportunity to increase its investment in the Company in such a transaction, but such opportunity cannot be assured.

The amount of additional financing needed by the Company, if any, will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the Company. The declining of an opportunity or the inability of the Investor to make a follow-on investment, or the lack of an opportunity to make such a follow-on investment, may result in substantial dilution of the Investor's interest in the Company.

23. What are the risks to purchasers associated with corporate actions, including additional issuances of securities, issuer repurchases of securities, a sale of the issuer or of assets of the issuer or transactions with related parties?

Additional issuances of securities. Following the Investor's investment in the Company, the Company may sell interests to additional investors, which will dilute the percentage interest of the Investor in the Company. The Investor may have the opportunity to increase its investment in the Company in such a transaction, but such opportunity cannot be assured. The amount of additional financing needed by the Company, if any, will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the Company. The declining of an opportunity or the inability of the Investor to make a follow-on investment, or the lack of an opportunity to make such a follow-on investment, may result in substantial dilution of the Investor's interest in the Company.

Issuer repurchases of securities. The Company may have authority to repurchase its securities from unitholders, which may serve to decrease any liquidity in the market for such securities, decrease the percentage interests held by other similarly situated investors to the Investor, and create pressure on the Investor to sell its securities to the Company concurrently.

A sale of the issuer or of assets of the issuer. As a minority owner of the Company, the Investor will have limited or no ability to influence a potential sale of the Company or a substantial portion of its assets. Thus, the Investor will rely upon the executive management of the Company to manage the Company so as to maximize value for unitholders. Accordingly, the success of the Investor's investment in the Company will depend in large part upon the skill and expertise of the executive management of the Company. If the Management of the Company authorizes a sale of all or a part of the Company, or a disposition of a substantial portion of the Company's assets, there can be no guarantee that the value received by the Investor, together with the fair market estimate of the value remaining in the Company, will be equal to or exceed the value of the Investor's initial investment in the Company.

Transactions with related parties. The Investor should be aware that there will be occasions when the Company may encounter potential conflicts of interest in its operations. On any issue involving conflicts of interest, the executive management of the Company will be guided by their good faith judgement as to the Company's best interests. The Company may engage in transactions with affiliates, subsidiaries or other related parties, which may be on terms which are not arm's-length, but will be in all cases consistent with the duties of the management of the Company to its unitholders. By acquiring an interest in the Company, the Investor will be deemed to have acknowledged the existence of any such actual or potential conflicts of interest and to have waived any claim with respect to any liability arising from the existence of any such conflict of interest.
